CHARLESTOWN GAY FOR CELEBRATION

Gorgeously Decorated for This Great Event—Three Parades on Programme.

This is Charlestown's day.

Never before in her history has she held such a brilliant celebration as that which marks the 134th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill. All of her public buildings and most of her private residences are bedecked in the national colors and her streets are filled with patriotic thousands eager to make this the greatest celebration of General Warren's conflict with the British.

The official programme opened at daybreak with the firing of cannon and the ringing of bells, and the remainder of the day is crowded with events, which include three parades, scores of entertainments and open houses and all the customs that go with the day.

Bright and early the people of Charlestown were on the move, and while last night was one of the quietest "nights before" that has ever preceded a Bunker Hill anniversary, to-day's entertainment places the celebration ahead of that of other years.

Quiet Night Before.

The police report the "night before" as unusual for its lack of disturbance. There were hundreds of Charlestown people abroad all night, but they were orderly and there were few arrests. The records at police headquarters show that during the twenty-four hours from yesterday at 6 a. m. until to-day at the same hour but fifty-seven persons were booked. Of these thirty-eight were for drunkenness and the balance, excepting two for larceny, were charged with violations of the city ordinances.

Last night there were few of the old-time scenes of boisterous revelry that has marked other nights before the Seventeenth. The cannon cracker, firearm, cowbell and fish horn were heard but seldom. An extra detail of police had little trouble in keeping order.

Thousands of people from other sections of the greater city are in Charlestown today for the celebration. Long before 9 o'clock the crowds began coming, and when the first parade was held the streets were almost impassable. A big detail of special officers had their hands full keeping back the lines for the parade.

Wild West Parade.

The Wild West parade was the feature of the morning celebration and was viewed by thousands all along the line. The route was from City square, where the parade formed at 9:30, to Chelsea street, to Bunker Hill, to Lexington, to High, to Elm, to Bunker Hill, to Gardner, to Sever, to Cambridge, to Main, to City square.

The afternoon parade surpasses even the splendid pageants which have marked other Bunker Hill Days.

Over one thousand sailors from the battleships at the navy yard march, with many companies from the Ninth Regiment, the Fifth Massachusetts Infantry, High School Cadets, Spanish War Veterans and representatives from civic organizations. One of the greatest features of the afternoon parade is the appearance of the Charlestown Artillery, which first observed the great anniversary in 1786.

After the military parade the three local companies of the Fifth Regiment will march to the new State armory on Bunker Hill street and enjoy a dinner, after which patriotic addresses will be delivered by prominent officers of the regiment.

The big feature of the celebration this year will be the last number on the program, the electrical parade in the evening. The pageant of scenic and electrical

RUSSIANS FIRED ON BRITISH SHIP

COPENHAGEN, June 17.—A British steamer appearing too near to the Russian warship guarding the vicinity of Bjorkoe, Finland, for the meeting of the Czar and Kaiser to-day was shelled by the Russian, according to a report received to-day. The incident may result in international complications. The affair has produced great excitement.

Six shots were fired by the Czar's warship, but not one struck the mark. The British steamer fled beyond range, and the warship did not pursue.

The warship has been patrolling the Finnish coast off Bjorkoe keeping strict watch for suspicious looking vessels.

Pitkipas Bay, on the south coast of Finland at Bjorkoe, does not see much maritime activity and the appearance of the British vessel and the attack of the warship recalled vividly to-day the action of the Russian fleet in the North Sea when it fired upon British trawlers during the British-Japanese war.

At that time Admiral Rojestvensky was taking the Russian Baltan fleet through the North Sea when a number of trawling boats containing fishermen were shelled by the warships. An international inquiry resulted in a settlement of the difficulty arising from the Russian act.

ANIMALS SAVED BY BARKING OF DOG

Barking by dogs early to-day saved the lives of scores of valuable animals and probably prevented the destruction by fire of the three-story brick stable at No. 99 West Dedham street. The first floor of the building is occupied by Houghton's stables, while Daniel Keefe has dog kennels on the second floor. The night watchman was alarmed by the violent barking of the dogs. He saw a blaze springing up in some hay. Calling to the porter to pull an alarm the watchman began rescuing the dogs down the stairs to safety till the firemen arrived and extinguished the blaze. The damage was about $150.

JOHN D. WON'T ENTER THEOLOGICAL ROW

CHICAGO, June 17.—John D. Rockefeller has refused to enter the theological row that has been started over Professor George Burman Foster's writings. Although Mr. Rockefeller has given millions for the building of the university, he is not going to interfere with Professor Foster's work or that of the university trustees. If there is anything wrong with either Professor Foster's theology or his teachings, that is the business of the men who are running the Midway institution, but not Mr. Rockefeller's.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, June 17.—A large proportion of our population which did not care for the parades in Charlestown visited the Red Sox pastures this morning to root for the home team in the second game of the series against the Chicago White Sox.

Though kicking themselves over the outcome of the first encounter the Red Sox were full of "pep" when they took the field against the "Hitless Wonders," and they resolved to make the Chicago bunch go some. All they hoped for was that Big Ed Walsh would not do any of the pitching. Big Ed has always had the locals Buffaloed.

Lake's cripples are rounding into shape again and before long the full strength of the team will be available. "Then look out for us," say the Speed Boys.

The weather was grand for baseball and there was an early rush to the grounds. The ticket sellers had a busy forenoon of it and certainly earned their salary.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Lord whipped Hahn's grounder to Wolter. Lord made a beautiful one hand stop of Parent's grounder, but Wolter spoiled the play by dropping the throw. Parent died stealing, Carrigan to Wagner. McConnell drew out Isbell. NO RUNS.

McConnell beat out a slow hit to Isbell. Mech bellowing by the bugs. Lord was there with a sacrifice, Burns to Atz, Jake covering first. Speaker lined to Tannehill, who tossed to Atz, catching McConnell for a double play. NO RUNS.

BAR VEHICLES AT STADIUM ENTRANCE

To avoid the congestion of vehicles and confusion at the entrance to the Harvard Stadium on Tuesday night, when Maude Adams will present "Joan of Arc" in the amphitheatre for the benefit of the Cosmopolitan Museum of Harvard University, the main thoroughfare to the Stadium will be closed to automobiles and carriages from the bridge across the Charles River on the Cambridge side to Stadium street on the Boston side. All vehicles carrying the patrons to the production will proceed by way of Western avenue, North Harvard street and Stadium street, at the corner at which there will stop to allow passengers to alight or ride proceed down Stadium street to the parking grounds of the Stadium itself. Provision will be made for checking and safeguarding the vehicles, and a detail of police will assist in preserving order and keeping out disturbers. There will be a large force of mounted and foot police on North Harvard street and about the grounds.

MORGAN GETS BEST SCULPTURE IN SPAIN

PARIS, June 17.—J. Pierpont Morgan has purchased here, what is probably the finest example extant of the Gothic art of Spain in the fifteenth century. It is an altar piece in alabaster, composed of five superb reliefs set in recesses of exquisite architectural motifs and surrounded by three semicheons, of which one bears in relief the attributes or insignia of the Passion of Christ, and the others the armorial bearings of the Archbishop D. Dalmacio de Mur of Saragossa (1431-1456). It is the most important piece of Catalan sculpture that has ever left Spain. The Metropolitan Museum of Art, for which it is destined, will be the envy of every museum and public collection. Not one possesses a like treasure.

AUTO RACERS AFTER RECORDS AT READVILLE

Daring drivers, confident of breaking records, compete to-day in the races of the Bay State Automobile Association at the Readville track.

Thousands of autoists witness the eight races on the program, practically every automobile club in the State attending the race meet in a body.

The feature race of the day is the twenty-five-mile match race between Charlie Basle with his French machine and Ralph de Palma with the Fiat Cyclone. Both are after the track record of 24-45 seconds made by Baldwin in the Fall of 1907.

Nearly every car entered in the races is at the track tuned up to their proper pitch. Grant, in his Alco, bears watching, for the Alco has been known for many years as a car that can go the whole distance at a steady and sure clip. A car just before the rolling of the first event, two-cycle Atlas car. Tals is the first time this car has been entered in any race in this section.

Most of the automobile clubs throughout the State attend the races in a body. This means much to the sport and virtually means an assembly of all the automobile associations in this State.

A special train leaves the South Station at 1:12 p. m., arriving at the race track that is watched closely by the six-cylinder Pierce-Arrow wake Hyde Park police are on their job to-day, for they have placed auto traps for the speeding autoists who attempt to make too fast time over the roads leading through their town and to the race track. They have placed traps from Hyde Park to the railroad bridge at Readville.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

(FIRST GAME—CONTINUED.)

SECOND—Dougherty tripled to right, scoring on Purtell's single. Tannehill sacrificed, Brhuell to Wolter. Atz walked. Owens out, Lord to Wolter. Carrigan threw high to Burchell and Purtell scored. Burns died, Wolter to Burchell, 2 RUNS.

Gessler and Wolter did the whiff act, and Wagner boosted to Dougherty. NO RUNS.

THIRD—Hahn led off with a single to right. Parent beat out his attempted sacrifice. Hahn got to third on Lord's bad throw. Isbell hit to McConnell, who threw to Wagner to catch Parent, but Wagner was not on the bag and all were safe. Dougherty singled to left, scoring Hahn and Parent. Purtell sent a long single to right, scoring Isbell and Dougherty. Schlitzer replaced Burchell. Tannehill grounded to Wolter, and Lord threw out Atz. Burns was easy. FOUR RUNS.

SUGAR DEFENDANTS URGE DELAY.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The attorneys for the seven former employes of the Sugar Trust who were indicted in connection with the sugar weighing frauds on the Havemeyer and Elder piers in Brooklyn appeared before Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court to-day to press their suit for delay on the ground that recent disclosures of Sugar Trust tactics had aroused public opinion and precluded the possibility of the defendants getting a fair trial at this time.

MANY RESCUED AT FIRE AND EXPLOSION

Thrilling rescues of several women and children from a fire that followed an explosion of fireworks in a Charlestown store early to-day were made by Police Sergeant Gallivan of the Hanover street station and Patrolmen Fitzgerald and Fitzpatrick of the City Square station. The three policemen risked their lives in carrying people to safety.

The fire occurred in the store kept by William Welsh at No. 61 Bunker Hill street. In a moment after the fireworks in the window burst forth in a great sheet of flame the entire building, which was three stories high, was burning like a great pile of kindling wood.

Women and children were asleep on every floor. Midnight had just passed and Charlestown had quited under the curbing influence of great squads of police and the greater part of the city was wrapped in slumber.

Alone on Top Floor.

When the policemen had rescued those from the first and second floors, Gallivan and Fitzgerald found Margaret and May Mullane, sisters, still asept on the top floor. The two men rushed through blinding smoke and flashing tongues of flame to the top floor and found the girls. They were unconscious.

Each man, with one of the girls in his arms, made his way down to the second floor over a stairway that was rapidly crumbling beneath their feet. They were that is watched closely by the six-cylinder scorched by the flames and almost suffocated by the smoke. But they fought their way down, groping as best they could in the darkness.

When they reached the head of the stairway leading to the ground floor they found that it had been eaten away. Trapped as they were, the men realized that there was not a moment to lose.

Leap Across Flames.

"We've got to jump for it," shouted Gallivan. "Here goes!"

Down he shot and fortunately landed in safety. Fitzgerald did the same thing, and in a few minutes the rescued girls were revived in the cool air.

In the store at the time the fire started was William Welsh. He was preparing to close for the night. His sister, Alice Welsh, was with him. She was working over the books, counting up the day's receipts.

When the policemen had rescued those from the first and second floors, Gallivan and Fitzgerald found Margaret and May Mullane, sisters, still asept on the top floor. The two men rushed through blinding smoke and flashing tongues of flame to the top floor and found the girls. They were unconscious.

There was a flash, a roar and the entire front of the store blazed and blazed. How the explosion occurred no one seems to know. But Welsh realized the danger at once, grabbed his sister in his arms and rushed her to safety.

THIS IS THE LIMIT! PITTSBURG SHOCKED

PITTSBURG, June 17.—One shapely lady in a sheath gown broke up a lawn fete at Bellevue, the fashionable Pittsburg suburb. Nobody seems to know who she was or how she came to intrude. The ladies of Bellevue, who got off the lawn as quickly as they could drag their husbands and daughters with them, say they do not want to know anything about her.

MORSE FREED, PLANS TO PAY UP ALL DEBTS

NEW YORK, June 17.—Through the unswerving loyalty of his wife and friend, Charles W. Morse is breathing the free air of liberty to-day. He will be a practically free man until the second Monday of next October, when his bail bond of $125,000 furnished by twenty New York millionaires is returnable. In the meantime, according to his own declaration, he will devote all his time to paying back his debts dollar for dollar.

The arrangements whereby Morse left his Tombs cell and received liberty under bail were made by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision which stated that the sum required was $125,000, and that $50,000 each must be furnished by twenty-five responsible men.

After Mrs. Morse had by her untiring efforts secured eighteen of her husband's friends to put up bonds of $5,000 each, Judge Lacombe agreed to allow Frederick Wagner, president and Joseph D. Carroll, treasurer of the Fish, Dorr and Carroll Horse Company to furnish $15,000 and $20,000 respectively. Then Morse was taken from United States Marshall Henkel's office to the court and released.

The scene outside the court room was impressive, and the man who was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment in the Atlanta prison on conviction of misusing the funds of the National Bank of North America was deeply affected.

"We are going to our home at No. 728 Fifth avenue and we are going to have a good home meal. Mrs. Morse is going to prepare it herself. That will take two hours I know, but I am willing to wait that long to enjoy a meal at home and from my wife's hands."

"What are your plans for the future?" Mr. Morse was asked.

"I shall try to settle the remainder of my indebtedness" was the quick reply. "I am determined to settle my debts dollar for dollar. I will devote every minute of my time from now until October in an endeavor to pay off my obligations."

KILLED HIMSELF AS FRIEND DID

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., June 17.—The suicide of a friend and fellow-workman, who, like himself, was unemployed, apparently rankled in the mind of Alexander Kyle, and he, too, took his life.

Peter McLaughlin and Kyle had worked together in the bleacheries for a number of years, and lately both were thrown out of work. The former was a single man, while Kyle leaves a widow and three children.

CHIMNEY SWEEP WON RICH GIRL AS BRIDE

BRYAN, O., June 17.—Clarence W. Field, 21, and Ann Harbor Arndet, while making the rounds as a chimney sweep to pay his way, met Miss Edith Wilhelm, a rich social favorite.

They fell in love while he was working at her home, and their secret marriage has been announced.

MEN KISS IN COURT TO SECURE FREEDOM

NEW YORK, June 17.—Arrested for fighting, Joseph Croffi and Vincent Portsellat took Magistrate O'Connor literally in the Essex Market Police Court when he said they could go free if they'd "kiss and make up."

The men promptly embraced, exchanged "smacks" and went out smiling.

ELIOT BOOK PLATES WORTH $1,200 STOLEN

The mysterious disappearance of more than $1,200 worth of valuable copper engravings for the editions of George Eliot's books has been reported to the police by Joseph H. Wheeler, a printer at No. 209 Washington street.

The shop was not broken into and the owner cannot describe any person to the theft, as the plates could not be used by any other publisher without detection.

HOT WATER TANK EXPLODES IN HOTEL

SALISBURY BEACH, June 17.—Caused by some unknown defect, a hot water tank exploded in the Hotel Whiting and nearly 100 gallons of hot water was thrown about the room where the explosion occurred, splashing with the violence of a great wave. The greater part of the damage consisted of twisted pipes and a ruined boiler and tank. The boiler is located underneath the kitchen.

CAN'T ALWAYS TELL A GIRL BY HER NAME

NEWARK, N. J., June 17.—Her name is Edith Pleasant, she is colored, and she was given three months in the County Penitentiary at Jersey City.

She was charged with "wasting" Police Captain Tim Murphy, alleging Police Commissioner Farmer, and biting Policeman Meehan on the hand.

Laxton Calls Ex-Wife's Counsel Cur

Denies He Had Another Woman's Love

Upper picture shows Mrs. Sarah J. Laxton, her son John, who is supporting her in her suit against Lila O. Hay for alleged alienation of Dr. Laxton's affections, and their friend. In lower picture are her daughters Gladys and Patience, who have taken their father's side.

Held for Contempt for Remarks in Resenting What He Called Insult to Mother.

Dr. John W. R. Laxton is arraigned before Judge Fessenden in the Superior Court this afternoon on a charge of contempt of court because during his cross-examination in the alienation suit of his former wife against Lila O. Hay he called counsel for Mrs. Laxton a cur.

After making the remark Dr. Laxton was placed in custody of the sheriff and Judge Fessenden said that he would defer action until later. Dr. Laxton was released on his personal recognizance.

Under cross-examination by William A. Morse, counsel for the plaintiff, Dr. Laxton was asked in regard to the contents of a letter concerning a talk that Mrs. Hay and his mother had on love and marriage and of a remark made that the doctor and Mrs. Hay would make a good couple and could go into society together. The doctor's face flushed as the letter was read, and after the question was put to him respecting it, he said: "Don't you insult my mother," speaking loudly.

Shouts Name at Lawyer.

Mr. Morse then asked: "Didn't you know how unhappy your wife was because you had another man's wife?"

Raising his voice and pounding his fist on the hand rest of the witness stand, the doctor replied, warmly: "I had not another man's wife, you cur, you."

Judge Fessenden looked at the witness. Mr. Morse said, "If your Honor thinks I ought to be treated that way I will make no further comment."

Judge Fessenden replied, "I will attend to that matter at 4 o'clock."

Counsel resumed his cross-examination. When the trial ended for the day, the Judge ordered the room cleared of all except members of the bar and of the press. The room was quickly cleared and his Honor directed Deputy Sheriff Campbell to place the witness, who was still on the stand, in custody. Deputy Campbell took hold of Dr. Laxton and the Judge told him to take the defendant to the bar.

Wife Slapped His Face.

Dr. Laxton testified that his wife slapped his face twenty-four years ago and they were never friendly after that. He left her in 1900 because she accused him of buying dresses for other women and with being too familiar with other women. He didn't leave his wife on account of of Mrs. Hay.

Since his separation from his wife up to July 25, 1908, he paid her about $10,000, including alimony decreed in a divorce suit.

Cross-examined, he said he didn't recall why his wife slapped his face twenty-four years ago. She tried to repeat the act, but he would not allow it. At the time of his marriage he was a poor mechanic and had $3. He lived in Springfield and in Hartford after his marriage. He last worked as a mechanic in 1900. About that time he went to Mrs. Dr. Osgood on behalf of his brother-in-law. She was a nerve doctor and that was when he first began as a nerve doctor.

In 1884 Mrs. Hay had moved in the tenement under his tenement with the approval of his wife. He did not know that Mrs. Hay sang in a church. She had not sung to him. He said he had no use for the affinity business. His wife was hysterical. He felt kindly toward her. He said she never loved him and if she had she would never have brought this action.

"There would never have been a divorce from that woman," he said, "if it had not been for you flocking at Mr. Morse. There was no necessity for it. I respect her. Love and respect are different. I respect that woman. You can cut the love out of it."

RESCUES AT ROXBURY FIRE.

Fire was discovered in the basement of the four and a half story brick building at No. 63½ Ruggles street, Roxbury, by Patrolman John Cleary of the Roxbury Crossing Station who sounded an alarm from Box 211. The patrolman then went back and assisted several of the occupants out of the building.

BANKER STOLE CASH TO HELP REFORM THIEF

NEW YORK, June 17.—One act of mercy which brought Paul Endemann, defaulting paying teller of the Hanover Street branch of the Jefferson bank, for the first time in his life into contact with a citizen of the underworld, led step by step to his downfall.

It was a curious strain of mercy in the make-up of this young man, considered by friends, employers and business associates a model of what a young man holding a trusted position should be, that overmastered his conscientious scruples and made him a defaulter.

A close friend of Endemann revealed the strange facts of his downfall and threw the ray of light which pointed out the hitherto unexplained reason why he robbed his employers.

It was not a case of high living, or in the first instance, of the greed of gain for self alone. It was only after he had been induced to steal in order to aid, as he believed, an unfortunate fellow creature in distress that he took to speculation on the races and other gambles in an effort to win enough to replace the money he had stolen.

Story of His Downfall.

To ease his conscience he became the frequenter of resorts where he could find a reckless company and forget himself in dissipation.

Five years ago, Endemann, who up to that time had never committed a wrong, was robbed by a pickpocket during an outdoor celebration at Coney Island.

He had made his home in the neighborhood of this resort, and spent his spare moments there in the enjoyment of innocent pleasure. He detected a man in the act of robbing him, and, yielding to first impulse, had the thief arrested. The next day in court he became sorry for the prisoner and pleaded with the magistrate to release him.

Pretending that Endemann's influence and won him from evil ways and that he wished the others could feed the same influence, the pickpocket introduced the bank teller to a young woman.

Took Money to Aid Woman.

He told of her misfortunes, and of how she had made a mistake and appropriated money. He pictured the horrors of a prison career, which this young woman faced, and declared that $250 would put her again in the right path, and would make a good woman of her.

Endemann was deeply touched by the sham. He had always been liberal with his expenditures for his family and friends, and did not have the money. By an unaccountable twist in his makeup, he took the money from the fund of which he had charge to divert it to a use which he considered good, intending to pay it within a short time.

POLICEMAN BEATEN BY BOY CELEBRATORS

A mob gave Patrolman Perley G. Tilton of the Joy street station a beating at the corner of Elliot and Tremont streets early to-day, and it had not been for the timely arrival of several patrolmen of the Lagrange street station Tilton might have sustained serious injuries. One of the men under arrest gave his name as Charles Lyons, twenty years old, of No. 2 Quincy place. Tilton was in citizen's clothes on his way home, and while on Tremont street, near Eliot, met a crowd of young men, one of whom, it is said, asked him for five cents. Tilton refused, and it is said, the crowd jumped on him. Lieutenant Goodwin of the LaGrange street station was notified, and several more men were hurried to the scene and the crowd took to their heels.

HELD FOR HAT THEFT.

Frank Stanlon, eighteen, of Compton street, South End, was arrested early today by Special Officer Mitchell of the Lagrange Street Station and locked up charged with the larceny of an $8 Panama hat from Herman C. Klein at the corner of Washington and Warrenton streets at the time of arrest.

BRYAN HALTS BOOM.

CHICAGO, June 17.—While in Chicago William Jennings Bryan said flatly that he was not a candidate for U. S. Senator from Nebraska, that there must be a mistake somewhere with regard to the boom for him.

SEND IN FLAT PACKAGE DO NOT ROLL

TRICK MACHINE HOTEL TRAP FOR BRANDENBURG

NEW YORK, June 17.—A mere trick of fortune, in which a man who has evaded enemies and detectives by the hundreds is to be overwhelmed by a little machine, has come to light in the case of Broughton Brandenburg, who is on trial at present for the alleged forgery of a political article by the late Grover Cleveland.

In the course of his wanderings Brandenburg, with his little stepson, arrived in Denver and applied for accommodations at the Hotel Oxford. They were assigned to a room on the fifth floor.

A salesman for a company manufacturing the little machine, which was designed to save the office man and stenographer time in dictating telegrams, letters, office orders, etc., had arrived at the Oxford and engaged room No. 312 as a sleeping apartment and a room on the fifth floor to exhibit his goods in.

When all was ready he exhibited the machine to a number of gentlemen, allowing them to walk about the room, as if it were an office, dictating anything they wished, as though a stenographer were present. Instead of an individual little sound box against the wall, in a short time Foster would reproduce the dictation he typed form from the third floor room.

The day he had finished his work and given up the room he was about to dismount the apparatus in the room on the fifth floor when he heard the machine repeat the conversation of two men and a boy on the third floor. A bell boy was showing the other room, empty of everything but the machine's receiver, to some new guests. After a while the person below agreed to take the room and the bell boy left. Then the conversation went on.

"You won't let anybody take me back to St. Louis, will you dad, if I don't want to go?" asked a boyish voice.

"Not if I can help it," answered the deep bass of a man.

Foster immediately suspected that the man was Brandenburg, and several other suspicious incidents confirmed the suspicion, which he communicated to a detective, who had tried Brandenburg in San Francisco, where he was arrested.

BROKERS FAIL.

NEW YORK, June 17.—W. B. Smith & Co., of the Consolidated Stock Exchange here succeeded business after the institution of bankruptcy proceedings by Henry Frost and Harry Anderson, brokers, of New York, and Archibald Graham of Paterson, N. J., broker. The petitioners claim agency commissions to the amount of $1,905.

WIFE OF SLAIN MAN FOUND IN DIRE DISTRESS

Preston W. Day, a prosperous poultry raiser of Norfolk, who shot and killed Joseph Thomas, an alleged chicken thief, in self-defence, is given a hearing to-day in the Franklin District Court. His release is asked for on the grounds of justifiable homicide.

Mrs. Thomas, who lives with her six children, in a home that is nothing but a country farm, is heartbroken over the killing of her husband. Starvation threatens the Thomas family as they are without any means of livelihood.

"Can you tell me where is my husband?" the pretty Polish woman said today, "the children are crying to see him dead."

In the course of his wanderings Brandenburg, with his little stepson, arrived in Denver and applied for accommodations at the Hotel Oxford. They were assigned to a room on the fifth floor.

A salesman for a company manufacturing the little machine, which was designed to save the office man and stenographer time in dictating telegrams, letters, office orders, etc., had arrived at the Oxford and engaged room No. 312 as a sleeping apartment and a room on the fifth floor to exhibit his goods in.

When all was ready he exhibited the machine to a number of gentlemen, allowing them to walk about the room, as if it were an office, dictating anything they wished, as though a stenographer were present. Instead of an individual little sound box against the wall, in a short time Foster would reproduce the dictation he typed form from the third floor room.

The day he had finished his work and given up the room he was about to dismount the apparatus in the room on the fifth floor when he heard the machine repeat the conversation of two men and a boy on the third floor. A bell boy was showing the other room, empty of everything but the machine's receiver, to some new guests. After a while the person below agreed to take the room and the bell boy left. Then the conversation went on.

"You won't let anybody take me back to St. Louis, will you dad, if I don't want to go?" asked a boyish voice.

"Not if I can help it," answered the deep bass of a man.

Foster immediately suspected that the man was Brandenburg, and several other suspicious incidents confirmed the suspicion, which he communicated to a detective, who had tried Brandenburg in San Francisco, where he was arrested.

BROKERS FAIL.

NEW YORK, June 17.—W. B. Smith & Co., of the Consolidated Stock Exchange here succeeded business after the institution of bankruptcy proceedings by Henry Frost and Harry Anderson, brokers, of New York, and Archibald Graham of Paterson, N. J., broker. The petitioners claim agency commissions to the amount of $1,905.

MOUSE FREES SNAKES AND AROUSES TOWN

SOUTH NORWALK, Ct., June 17.—A mouse gnawed a hole in a box containing seven rattlesnakes here, and they all escaped, five still being at large.

Hardly a woman has ventured on the street. Policemen wear big boots and signs on the corners read: "Look out for rattlesnakes."

LAUGH COST TWO MEN THEIR LIVES

NEWARK, N. J., June 17.—Charles Peterson and Wilhelm Rover took their dog when they went fishing on Weequahic Lake.

They began playing with the dog, and laughed so heartily at his antics the row boat was overturned and they were drowned.

How to Stop Baldness

Woods Hutchinson, M. D., widely known as a writer of authority, says in the Cosmopolitan Magazine for February, 1909: "The main hope of stopping the advance of baldness lies in the direction of improving the general health and vigor, while at the same time keeping the scalp and the hair in a clean, antiseptic, well-ventilated condition. Avoid using too strong soaps, strong alkalis, such as ammonia and soda, and too hot water, as all of these take out too much of the natural lubricant, or oil, of the hair, and leave it dry and harsh." Birt's Head Wash is recommended as a perfectly safe preparation for cleansing the hair and scalp. It is a mild, antiseptic preparation, made of Refined Soap, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, Glycerin, White of Eggs and Salicylic Acid. This is a formula that comes well within Dr. Hutchinson's recommendation, as it contains no free alkali or ammonia and it puts the scalp and hair in a vigorous, healthful condition. After using Birt's Head Wash, your hair will possess a lustre and sheen that no other remedy can bestow, while your scalp will be soft, white and clean. Remember always that cleanliness comes first of all in stopping falling hair, curing dandruff and itching scalp, and that for all these troubles Birt's Head Wash is the best thing you can buy, for you know exactly what it is made of. There are so many fakes and frauds for the hair on the market that you ought to be glad to get something that you can depend upon as being safe to use. Price 50c a jar. 23

LASIGI FREED AFTER WIFE'S 12-YEAR FIGHT

"Thank God and my wife. I knew she would succeed."

This fervent statement was made to-day by Joseph A. Iasigi, former Turkish consul, rich man and society leader, who was pardoned after twelve years spent in a cell in the State Prison at Charlestown.

Iasigi, who was convicted for the embezzlement of trust funds amounting to $200,000, was pardoned by Governor Draper, who had been moved to liberate him by the appeal of Mrs. Iasigi. It was Mrs. Iasigi's remarkable devotion to her husband that was largely responsible for his release.

Iasigi was working at his desk in the bookkeeping room of the shoe department in the prison when Deputy Warden Allen touched him on the shoulder. "You may stop work, Iasigi," he said. "You are pardoned."

The former Turkish consul carefully wiped his pen and laid it down. He then closed his ledger with a sigh of relief and gratitude.

The deputy then led him to a room, where he was given a suit of civilian's clothes. Meantime Mrs. Iasigi had secured the pardon from the Governor and was speeding towards the prison in a carriage. She was accompanied by her coachman, a man named Ahern. She was met at the entrance to the prison by Father Augustine Maloy, chaplain at the prison.

The meeting of husband and wife was affecting. When they started for home the carriage tears were streaming down his cheeks.

"I really do not know what to say," he said. "I am out of touch with affairs and I do not know what I am going to do. The news of the pardon came as a surprise to me. I have hoped so many times and been bitterly disappointed. But I am tremendously grateful, nevertheless. I have no plans for the future. I need time to look around and to think. I must readjust myself to conditions. I thank the Governor and his Council most heartily for their kindness to me in this matter."

Mr. and Mrs. Iasigi went directly to the home of Mrs. Iasigi at No. 14 Irving street, Brookline. It is reported that they will go abroad soon.

Iasigi was a model prisoner. He never missed a day at his work in the eleven years he spent in jail. He exercised carefully and took the best care of himself. His health was of the best throughout his imprisonment and his spirits were also good, in spite of several bitter disappointments when Governors Douglas and Guild refused to sign a pardon. He had three years more to serve.

Mrs. Iasigi worked for a pardon from the day of her husband's conviction. She wrote a daily letter to the prison for eleven years and never failed to see him on visiting days.

TAFT MAY POSTPONE VISIT TO BAY STATE

WASHINGTON, June 17.—President Taft to-day declared that he would like to participate in the ceremonies incident to the celebration of the silver jubilee of Archbishop O'Connell, but that his ability to do so would depend entirely upon the date Congress adjourns.

The President had hoped to be at his Summer home in Beverly early enough to permit him to run up to Boston for the occasion, but the developments at the Capitol during the past few days have been complicated, and his own special message will not help matters any, so that he will be early adjourned.

It was freely admitted about the Capitol to-day that all hope of an early adjournment has been abandoned.

HIGGINS' BUNGALOW AT PROVINCETOWN

One of the most artistic of Summer homes upon the Atlantic coast is a large, roomy bungalow, erected at Provincetown by Charles Higgins, of Boston, on the top of Gull Hill, at the extreme west end of Provincetown. The house has been considerably enlarged this year, and its appointments and furnishings are all in the most admirable taste. Visitors in Provincetown make a point of seeing this remarkable dwelling, and on Thursdays throughout the Summer several hundred visitors crowd the rooms. Provincetown is visited daily by the steamer Cape Cod, which leaves the wharf, No. 400 Atlantic avenue, at 9 o'clock.

$20,000 STOLEN; $15,000 RETURNED

DULUTH, Minn., June 17.—Mrs. George Shea, of this city, who notified the police on May 30 that $20,000, which she had succeeded in securing after it had been stolen, has received $15,000 in a letter signed "Yours Thievers."

The writers say they need $5,000 to furnish their home, and having so further use for the money returned it to the owner.

Woodbury's Facial Soap is strictly antiseptic. It not only makes the skin smooth, soft and youthful but it protects and saves the most delicate complexion.

Ordinary soap—no matter how pure—cannot protect the skin. Woodbury's Facial Soap contains an unfailing antiseptic as well as healing qualities which make it an ideal complexion soap. It does more than merely cleanse—it soothes, heals and protects the skin. It gets down into the pores, dissolves and takes out those impurities which cloud the skin. It puts new life and beauty into the complexion and restores its youthful loveliness and charm.

POPE HEARS FARLEY GOT "GLASS ARM"

ROME, June 17.—Archbishop Farley of New York was among those received in private audience by the Pope.

Archbishop Farley's audience lasted for half an hour, and he thanked the Pope for the interest taken in the golden jubilee of the American College. In a joking tone the Pope said to the archbishop:

"I have been told that yesterday you went out to Castel Gandolfo and played baseball."

The Archbishop replied: "Yes, your Holiness, I pitched the first ball, it was the first game to be played at Castel Gandolfo and I wanted it to be inaugurated by one of the oldest alumni." He added that the unsuccessful exertion had given him a "glass arm."

The Pope then wanted to know how Mgr. Kennedy had played, saying that as rector of the American College he was fatherly, but firm.

The conversation then turned to the generosity of the American people to the Messina earthquake sufferers, and the Pontiff described the provisions made to help them, saying that the sum of $1,400,000 had been collected and that the Vatican was sending out portable churches where they were needed.

Archbishop Farley intimated that having this year presented his report for seven years' administration of the archdiocese, he would not come to Rome next year, when his regular visit is due, as the Pope objected to this arrangement, saying that he enjoyed personal intercourse with Archbishop Farley too much to let him off.

"Furthermore," he added, "you must come, because New York is getting as near Rome as is Naples."

BOY GOT SPANKED; JUMPED INTO WELL

CENTRAL CITY, Kan., June 17.—"If you whip me I'll jump into the well," declared the five-year-old son of Mrs. Sam Scott, when caught in a childish prank.

He was spanked and, running for the well, jumped into the well before any one could stop him. When the body was recovered it was found his neck had been broken.

LAWYERS GET $60,000, HEIRS ONLY $19,000

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Sixty thousand four hundred and fifty-three dollars was awarded to Holmes Conrad for securing a judgment from the Federal Supreme Court allowing heirs of the late Joseph Parrish $181, 358 for fee furnished to the Union army during the Civil War.

Because of this and other attorneys' fees and delays the two heirs received but $19,848 of the judgment.

YANKEE SUITOR WINS FAVOR OF MISS ELKINS

WASHINGTON, June 17.—An affection of the heart, Senator S. B. Elkins declared to-day, is his daughter Katherine's reason for going to Europe. He says her trip is not to see the Duc D'Abruzzi, as has been rumored. Washington society, when it heard that the Senator said Katherine had heart trouble, exclaimed "Billy Hitt." It is an open secret in the capital that Miss Katherine and Mr. Hitt, son of the former Congressman of Illinois, are very close friends. Billy Hitt's devotion to Miss Elkins is also long known, but for a time it was thought that the Duc D'Abruzzi had won the girl from the sturdy American boy, who is one of the most popular young men in Washington society, and who has been a comrade and friend of Miss Elkins from childhood.

Intimate friends of Miss Elkins declare that she has always been fond of Billy Hitt, but that it was her mother's ambition that was driving her into a match with D'Abruzzi.

Miss Elkins was flattered, naturally, by the ardent attentions of the Italian royal scion, but certainly her heart was not broken when the proposed match was called off.

Threw Bouquet to Hitt.

It was then that Billy Hitt began his assiduous attentions to Miss Elkins, and they have been seen everywhere together, riding, driving, automobiling and at the theatres.

The knowing point to a little incident that occurred at the recent society basketball game. Billy Hitt was the clever second lieutenant of the Metropolitan Club, and Miss Elkins's applause of his plays were very noticeable. Between the innings Mr. Hitt visited Miss Elkins in her box and they chatted away, oblivious to the other spectators. When, in the fifth inning, Mr. Hitt made a brilliant play, Miss Elkins was enthusiastic in her applause and threw him a large red rose from her bell.

It is said that Miss Elkins has long suffered from a slight heart affection, and it is therefore necessary for her to consult a great German specialist occasionally. She will sail for Europe about the first of July, and will remain abroad for several months.

Seeks Cure for Heart Affection.

Senator Elkins said to-day his daughter's heart affection is always materially augmented by heat, and that her physicians had directed that on the approach of hot weather she should immediately betake herself to the cooler zones of the European continent.

She will be accompanied by her mother, and both will leave whenever the temperature here becomes too high for them.

They probably will make a brief visit to West Virginia before going on their foreign journey. The Senator added that the Duke was still engaged in the mountain explorations, and probably would not return to Europe during the stay there of Mrs. and Miss Elkins.

Rumor has it that Mr. Hitt will also spend part of his vacation this season in Europe.

RUSSIA LAYS KEELS OF 4 DREADNOUGHTS

ST. PETERSBURG, June 17.—The keels of four battleships of the "Greater Dreadnought" type have been laid in St. Petersburg in the presence of many naval specialists.

These new vessels will be of 23,000 tons each, length over all 600 feet, and 85 feet. They will have a speed of twenty knots an hour and the main batteries will consist of ten 12-inch guns.

A special nickel steel will be used in the hull. It is estimated that it will take three years to construct them. They will form the squadron of the new Baltic fleet and will be named Petropavlovsk, Sebastopol, Poltava and Retvizan.

UNKNOWN MAN IS KILLED BY ELECTRIC

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by an inward bound Boston & Northern car early to-day on Main street, near the entrance to Pine Banks Park. The man was ground to pieces beneath the trucks of the car and identification will be difficult. A Panama hat with the name Smith written inside in pencil and a matchbox are the only articles that were not ground to bits. The car was in charge of Motorman Oliver Alward and Conductor Friedman.

SAYS HE PAID WOMAN $300 TO WIN LOVE

WINCHENDON, June 17.—Dezaire Fournier, forty-eight years of age, of Peterboro, N. H., has complained to Chief of Police Robert Callahan that he had paid Mrs. Bertha Gayette of Mill street $300 with the understanding that she would become his wife. He told the chief that the woman now refuses to marry him, and he wants his money back. He declares she was married to Cecil Lavalle, a boarder at her house, one day last week in Providence.

Chief Callahan called upon Mrs. Gayette, and while she acknowledged getting some money from Fournier, she says it was not more than $25 and that she never promised to marry him. She denies she is Lavelle's wife.

Fournier told Chief Callahan that he gave the woman $75 with which to get a divorce from her husband, who is a Boston man.

"I became acquainted with Mrs. Gayette in Peterboro, my home," said Fournier. "I learned to think a great deal of her and I thought she did the same of me. When she removed to this place about four months ago I still kept up the acquaintance.

"I had given her $300, a $25 gold watch and paid $75 to help her get her divorce. She got the divorce about two months ago. Two weeks ago I went to see her and again reminded her of her promise to wed me. She refused and said she didn't love me and wouldn't marry me. Then one day last week she went to Providence and married Cecil Lavalle.

"No such thing," said Mrs. Gayette, indignantly. "I'm not married and do not intend to get married. I have just got a divorce and that's all I was after. Fournier didn't help me at all with the divorce. I told him all I knew about it.

"He never gave me any money. I borrowed $25 from him once, and I am going to pay it back to him just when I get good and ready."

BOSTON GIRL HEROINE OF DOYLE'S PLAY

By ALAN DALE.

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, June 17.—Not even the immortal Sherlock Holmes could have detected the ghost of a dramatic idea in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's highly advertised and extremely exploited "morality play" called "The Fires of Fate," that was ushered into notice at the Lyric Theatre last night.

Sherlock would give it up as a bad job after the first act and booked it as a cross between a hifalutin tract and a Bowery melodrama. It was one of those frequent instances of the jarring effects of success upon a singularly unstable mind, and it proved once more that those who obtain recognition in one particular line look anxiously toward exaltcr.

A Discussion on Suicide.

The play began somewhat promisingly to the consulting room of a London physician. A colonel in the Bengal Lancers is told that he had some spinal affection which will end in degeneration and death. He has but a year to live. Thereupon Conan Doyle let loose the pros and cons of suicide under such circumstances. The colonel, the physician and a minister talk like the essence of half a dozen tracts, and suicide is tabooed.

Had the colonel committed suicide as he suggested we should have been spared a good deal. But he didn't. He hired and went for a trip on the Nile with his physician.

The play at that point also took a trip and went to Egypt. Much Egyptian color was laid on thickly in scenes on the Abou-el-Rock and the Oasis of Aboutah, but it was the end of the play's lofty mission—also of any further interest. Soudanese soldiers, negroes, Arabs, dervishes, priests, dragomen and all the rest of it were introduced, but all the Purpose went to the dogs. Also all coherence and all ingenuity. The Colonel fell in love with a beautiful "Bavarian" girl in the party and the party was attacked by dervishes.

A Case of "Penny Dreadfula."

For two acts we had this attack for all it was worth, with anguished tourists and devilish natives in conflict. They were served in the most approved style after enduring horrors that read like all sorts of "penny dreadfuls," and then Sir Conan, with a nerve that was really bewildering, brought his play to a close in the coolest, most delightfully juvenile way.

The hero was suddenly cursed by shock, as the audience feared he would be, and was instantly beloved by the beautiful "Bavarian" girl. Such a close from the champion of Sherlock Holmes was a shock that was almost enough to cure the audience of any sneaking admiration they may have possessed for the playwright.

ANNIE MANLEY IS ARRESTED AS THEFT SUSPECT

Dispatches from Syracuse, N. Y., to-day say that a woman, claiming to be the Annie Manley, who in April 1908, brought a $25,000 breach of promise suit against Professor Philippe Marcou of Harvard and which was tried in this city, is under arrest there on suspicion of having been implicated in the theft of a roll of bills from a white man's pocket. She told the police she lives on Holyoke street, Boston.

A week ago a white man reported he had been robbed of $101 in the Tenderloin of Syracuse. The police investigated and learned that the suspected two colored women. They learned that the Manley woman and another had been there, and that the other woman had left town.

Keeping Annie Manley under surveillance they awaited the return of the other woman, and last night Detectives Woods and Connolly captured both. No charge has as yet been preferred. The second girl is Anna Williams of Philadelphia.

The trial of the breach of promise suit brought by the Manley woman against Professor Marcou caused a sensation here. The jury returned a verdict for Marcou.

AH, HERE IT IS! BRAND NEW! THE 'TROUSERETTE'

NEW YORK, June 17.—Now it is the "trouserette gown."

In a short time, it is averred by the leading tailors of this city, this latest innovation will be as common along Fifth avenue and at Newport as are the paving stones. Bifi it promises to create a very considerable stir at the first.

The trouserette differs from the "panniform" in that it has no train and is in every way suitable for street wear; is, indeed, fashioned especially for that.

That the seatless gown, talked of by Samuel Paul at the convention of the tailors held at Boston, can possibly revive is laughed at by all the prominent New York tailors. They all express disgust at Mr. Paul's idea, and declared that no woman would be seen in such a gown as he suggested.

"Absolute tommyrot," was the comment of Mr. Harry Heimeringer, one of New York's foremost dodgers, in speaking of Mr. Paul's scheme.

What Women Desire.

"American women don't want American fashions. He's all wrong. What they want is something striking, like the empire, and the more Paris labels it's got the better it goes with them.

"Do you think the American figure for long? We won't say how many years, is going to take up something which absolutely annuls all that hard work and wear and tear on the system? Well, I guess not."

That was practically what all the others consulted thought.

In commenting further on what will find favor with the fair sex, Mr. Heimeringer opines some entirely new wrinkles in the way of female apparel.

"There's the article you are going to find at Newport and along the roads which lead thither," said he. As he pronounced the words a young woman stepped suddenly from behind a curtain arrayed in what was at least much like a pair of trousers in appearance with a marvellously bodice.

How New Gown Looks.

"That is the new trouserette gown which, in a few days, will be the talk of the country," said Mr. Heimeringer.

"Don't talk to me about scathes arrangements. In this you can sit down, stand up, ride horseback, jump fences, play tennis, or do anything else."

The gown has all the appearance of an ordinary walking skirt, except that from the knees down it is divided, like a pair of trousers. This does away with the necessity of long petticoats, makes walking easier and freer, and is much cooler than anything her ladyship of fashion has exhibited thus far in her crowded, distinguished, mottled, plaited career.

One of the accomplished men says: "Made for the sensible woman, then, every time at least—until, well—on in the fall."

CLAIRVOYANT SUES WIDOW OF 'AL' ADAMS

NEW YORK, June 17.—The testimony of a credulous woman before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court excited the curiosity of persons about the courthouse, and before she was on the stand five minutes she had a large audience. She was Mrs. Isabella Victoria Adams, widow of "Al" Adams, the "policy king," who committed suicide several years ago.

Mrs. Adams was defendant in a suit brought by Marguerite Gilbert, palmist and clairvoyant, to collect $50,000 on a note dated January 23, 1907, and reading as follows:

"I, Isabella V. Adams, hereby acknowledge my indebtedness to Marguerite Gilbert for services rendered by her for which I promise to pay her the sum of $50,000 and in the event of my death I hereby authorize and direct the payment of the same out of my estate."

It appeared from Mrs. Adams' answer to the suit and testimony in court that while her husband was making a fortune out of credulous persons who patronized his policy establishment astute persons were making money out of the credulity of his family. Mrs. Adams said that for many years the clairvoyant was her best friend and adviser. She represented to the wife of the "policy king" she had the faculty of foreseeing dangers that threatened the Adams family and that she, alone, had the power to ward them off.

Mrs. Adams testified she firmly believed in the clairvoyant's power. When she was ill Mrs. Gilbert prescribed medicine for her, she said. When one of Mrs. Adams's daughters was having trouble with her husband, the clairvoyant said she would straighten matters out.

Mrs. Adams said that whenever she consulted Mrs. Gilbert she gave her large sums of money, $1,000 at one time.

"She never did a thing for me that she was not well paid for. I do not owe her a cent," said Mrs. Adams.

$4,000,000 COAL LAND PURCHASE

PITTSBURG, June 17.—The Jones & Laughlin Steel Company has purchased 8,000 acres of valuable coal lands in Washington county at an approximate price of $4,000,000, which will insure a permanent supply of coal and coke for the new Aliquippa plant of the company. It will be the largest independent plate plant in the United States.

CHARLESTOWN IN GALA DRESS FOR HOLIDAY

boats, surmounted by beautiful costumed tableaux, will start to wind its way through the streets of Charlestown at 8:30 this evening. Joseph H. King is the chief marshal of this event.

Electrical Pageant.

Under the title, "Gems of the World," the first car, with musicians on board, will leave the car sheds at the corner of Bunker Hill and Sackville streets at 8:30 o'clock. The brilliancy and beauty of the diamond, ruby, garnet, amethyst, opal, coral, topaz, turquoise, sapphire, emerald, chrysolite, pearl and other precious tones will then be presented to the spectators.

Miss Hettie Turnbull, who portrayed the leading role in the carnival parade last year, will be the queen of the carnival and will ride on the diamond float. Miss Edna Carter is the leader on the sapphire float. Miss Marion Knox on the topaz, Mrs. H. K. Bangs on the garnet, Miss Beatrice Twoman on the pearl, Miss Frances Keefe on the opal, Miss Agnes Sullivan on the turquoise, Mrs. N. E. Field on the emerald, Miss Bessie Keefe on the coral, Miss Martha Marcoz on the ruby, Miss Sadie Rowe on the amethyst, Miss Margaret Smith on the chrysolite and Miss Annie Reddish on the crystal.

The parade will proceed over the customary route from the car shed at the corner of Bunker Hill and Sackville streets, down Bunker Hill to Chelsea, City square, Warren Bridge, Causeway street, Charlestown Bridge, City square, Main street, Sullivan square, Main street, Bunker Hill to the car sheds.

Mayor Will Review Pageant.

Two police officers in automobiles will lead the parade and will be followed by Chief Marshal Joseph King, Mayor Hibbard and Secretary Boudrot. The chief marshal's staff, consisting of Colonel William Oakes, James M. Glair, Edward H. Carter and John F. Goode, will follow in an auto.

The Mayor will review the parade at the new State Armory on Bunker Hill street.

The Sullivan square playground has been transformed into a miniature Midway with refreshment booths, flying horses, strength-testing machines, six-legged dog sideshows and fakirs galore. Fully 50,000 people visited this place last night and many times that number to-day.

LAWYER HINTS AT POISON PLOT IN GOULD CASE

NEW YORK, June 17.—The pantry, the stables and the carpenters shop of Castle Gould and the Virginia Blue Gap farm furnished an entire day of testimony for Howard Gould in the trial of the separation which his wife has brought against him.

Maids and footmen and laborers told Justice Victor J. Dowling of various occurrences when, it is urged, Mrs. Howard Gould was "under the influence" of liquor. It was all a part of Howard Gould's effort to justify his abandonment of his wife on the ground that she was addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors.

It may take several days to hear their testimony. It was definitely announced that Howard would take the stand in his own defense, particularly in regard to instances when his wife humiliated him before his friends.

His examination holds the possibility of being the sensation of the trial.

The end of this most sensational limited divorce suit is not in sight. Justice Dowling is beginning to grow anxious about the amount of time consumed.

At the close of the hearing he called Clarence J. Shearn, attorney for Mrs. Gould, and Delancy Nicoll for the defense, before him. They could see no way of hastening the presentation of the case. The justice then declared that he would hold longer sessions for the rest of the week and that he would hold night sessions next week.

The sensation of the trial was when the charge was made that an attempt had been made to poison Mrs. Gould at her Virginia farm (Blue Gap) near Lynchburg.

Attorney Shearn savagely demanded that Robert Trotter, a carpenter, now living in Scranton, Pa., tell him whether or not he had put poison in Mrs. Gould's coffee one night two years ago, when she suddenly fell in a stupor on the floor of her manor house dining room.

Trotter, who is of Scotch-Irish descent, denied the charge indignantly, as he did numerous insinuations which Mr. Shearn hurled at him. He particularly denied that he had been promised a large sum to testify against Mrs. Gould.

EMPTY PISTOL HELD POSSE OFF

PLYMOUTH, June 17.—John Sourles, twenty-two, living in Bryantville, is held on the charge of stealing a "cut" of cloth from the Puritan mills after holding at bay a posse of police with an empty revolver. A feature of the holdup is that the weapon was lost by a police officer after being emptied in a pursuit.

The young man, who has recently completed a term at the Concord reformatory, in his early flight held a conductor of the Kingston Electric Railway at bay, and escaped many shots fired at him by Inspector Hogan. After being chased for three hours he dodged two deputy sheriffs of Plymouth County and Inspector Hogan and Chief of Police Gledhill of Plymouth from behind a gravestone in a Bryantville cemetery, but was finally captured.

OVERSTAYED VISIT; MUST PAY BOARD

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 17.—Miss Ellen McCloskey of New York, who overstayed the limit of her invitation to visit her sister here, was arrested and taken from Alderman Donohoe at the instance of her brother-in-law, Edward Minne, because he refused to pay a week's board bill of $8. The brother-in-law invited her for two weeks; she stayed three. Miss McCloskey paid.

SHIP PLOWS THROUGH FOG FOR 800 MILES

The freighter Philadelphia, after plowing through the fog for 800 miles, has arrived in port from Copenhagen, bringing a cargo of 2,000 tons, 1,000 tons of which is for this port. For three days, Captain Hetsche remained constantly on the bridge directing the course of the ship through the heavy fog. Fair weather was had until the Grand Banks were reached, when the thick weather and a dense fog were encountered, continuing all the way into port.

FREED BY TRIPLE GRIEF.

ST LOUIS, June 17.—Twelve hours after her husband, John Glaesser, had been taken from home by the police under the charge of embezzling $273, Mrs. Martha Glaesser was found in bed beside the bodies of her children, Arnette, eight years old, and John, Jr., five years old. The room was filled with gas and the police admit the theory that the mother closed the room and turned on the gas.

Nicholas Glaesser, a brother, broke into the room and discovered the lifeless forms. All were in night robes. It is supposed that the arrest of her husband preyed on Mrs. Glaesser's mind, driving her insane.

Glaesser was employed as bookkeeper by company which caused the arrest and there would be no prosecution, as Glaesser had been published severely already.

PERSECUTING THE BRIDES.

DAYTON, Ohio, June 17.—So persistent are the jokers of South Park that Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seaquist, of No. 1,519 Alberta street, recently married, have appealed to the police. After hanging all sorts of signs on the house, the so-called practical jokers carried the furniture into the basement, tore up the rugs and pulled the wardrobe of the contracting parties to the wall. Unless the damage is paid the jokers will be arrested.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 19.—Immediately after the marriage of Miss Meryl Garrison to Enos Nation they were seized by a party of friends, handcuffed together, taken to the stage of a local theatre and introduced to a large audience of people.

How to Save Half On Milk

You are paying your milkman twice what you'd pay for Van Camp's. You even pay more by the quart. Then think of the waste—the milk that sours—the milk you use up to save. For you rarely get just milk enough.

You are paying more for impure milk than you would pay for pure.

That half-milk you use in your cooking costs more than rich Holstein milk.

You can have a cow in your kitchen for less than you pay toward the keep of your milkman's cow.

If Van Camp's cost twice as much as raw milk it would still be essential. There is nothing more vital than getting pure milk.

But when Van Camp's costs half as much, for what possible reason can one cling to raw milk?

Let us discuss the facts.

Surprisingly Rich

You'll be surprised at the richness and flavor which Van Camp's gives to a milk dish.

You'll wonder what we have added to make it so good.

But we add nothing at all.

The difference is this: You were cooking before with half-milk. For milkman's milk separates, before and after you get it.

The butter fat rises and the solids fall. So you never get the whole, rich milk.

In Van Camp's you do. You'll never again be content with half-milk when you once cook with Van Camp's.

Not Altered

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated. Nothing whatever is added. Nothing is subtracted, save water.

It's not a peculiar milk.

It is taken fresh from the cow and evaporated, close to our numerous dairies.

It is sterilized after the can is sealed. So it comes to you as fresh as it leaves us.

The slight almond flavor—apparent only when one drinks the milk cold—is due to sterilization.

For cooking or coffee, Van Camp's tastes exactly the same as raw milk or cream, save for additional richness.

It's Economical

Van Camp's is as thick as thick cream—so thick that you add one part water for coffee. Yet it doesn't cost half what you pay your milkman for cream.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk. The cost of such milk, when you buy Van Camp's by the case, is about six cents per quart.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. For Van Camp's means a cow in your kitchen.

One often spends for Van Camp's Milk about half what she paid the milkman.

Think of buying milk from hand to mouth —buying a half-milk laden with germs—and paying more than one pays for Van Camp's.

Free From Germs

Van Camp's is perfectly sterile.

We milk no tubercular cows. We employ no sickly milkmen.

Our dairies are sanitary. Our creameries, where the milk is evaporated, are built without wood. We make a business of cleanliness.

We employ every means known to science to guard our milk from infection.

Then the milk is pasteurized.

Every drop of raw milk contains a myriad of germs. And those germs are humanity's most terrible foes.

Van Camp's contains none at all. It is safe.

A Warning

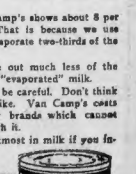
Van Camp's is not like a condensed milk, which is half sugar. Ours is nothing but milk.

Analysis of Van Camp's shows about 8 per cent of butter fat. That is because we use very rich milk and evaporate two-thirds of the water.

But one may take out much less of the water and still have "evaporated" milk.

So there is need to be careful. Don't think that all milks are alike. Van Camp's costs no more than many brands which cannot begin to compare with it.

You will get the utmost in milk if you insist on Van Camp's.



Van Camp's Milk comes in 5 and 10-cent cans, at your grocer's. It is put up at our dairies, in five states, where we milk 20,000 Holstein cows.

PELTED WITH SHOES, SHE GETS DIVORCE

Sarah A. Garland, a pretty and girlish wife, appeared before Judge Bell, asking for a divorce from her husband, Frederick L. Garland, alleging cruelty and abusive treatment. She lived with him in Swansville, Mass., after her marriage in July, 1901. She declared he continually drank to excess and at one time threw a lamp, shoes and dishes at her. Then they moved to Nova Scotia, where, she says, he had the habit of carrying to another woman meals that she cooked and paid for. He refused to come with her to Boston. She was given a decree nisi.

AUTOISTS FIGHT PACK OF WOLVES

LOWELL, Mass., June 17.—Attacked by wolves on a prairie, more than 200 miles from Denver, Col., and forced to fight for their lives during the entire night from their disabled automobile, was the plight reported here to-day of Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Morse of this city, who left here several weeks ago to make a trans-continental automobile trip. While Mr. and Mrs. Morse and their mechanic, Omer Deschenaux, also of Lowell, escaped unhurt, Mr. Morse is missing and it is feared his absence is the result of a later adventure with the ravenous wolves.

The rear axle of the machine had been broken, and Mr. Morse with the breaking of dawn had started out to reach a town where he could have the injury repaired. Nothing has been heard of him since. The attack by the wolves happened about a week ago.

CLERK GRANTS SELF MARRIAGE LICENSE

Chief Clerk John J. Browne of the city registry department applied to himself for a marriage license, respectfully and honestly answered certain questions which he had put to himself, and finally paid the modest fee which half apologizingly he was compelled to explain would be necessary. Then he went home and got ready for his wedding, which took place in the chapel of Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston. The bride was Miss Catherine M. Eagle. The Rev. Robert J. Johnson officiated.

An Anti-Suffragette View

By MRS. MARY COPLEY THAW.

The following article was written for the BOSTON AMERICAN by Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of Harry Thaw.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Known to be a heavy taxpayer without representation, and to have for some forty years worked untiringly for the betterment of social conditions for the uplift, physical, moral and spiritual, of humanity, my views on the suffragette question have been asked.

This startling language reported in the papers as coming from the society and suffragette leaders impels me to answer under pressure that might excuse the effort.

Th solemn warnings of clergymen, Protestant and Catholic, including the Pope himself, of Jewish rabbis, statesmen and others, have apparently fallen unheeded.

It remains for the anti-suffragettes to arouse and rally their forces. They should choose a leader, one who is doing things for the betterment of humanity—not merely uttering words, and rallying around her, offer solid, but non-combative resistance to a movement that recalls the spirit of the Paris commune.

This suffragette movement is an abnormal outgrowth of sociology. Like the shield of the fable over which two disputed until they came to blows, one seeing only the blue side, the other the red, so it is with modern sociology. Those who are clamoring for the ballot believe, or affect to believe, that it will right women's wrongs, real or fancied; lift all burdens from her shoulders in some occult undefined way. These look only on the blue side. To others the same shield is lit up by flames of passions let loose. It is easy to start a prairie fire, but how shall it be checked when it becomes a destroyer?

NATION FALLING FROM TRUTH

That the nation is falling from the truth, is the declaration of the Rev. J. M. Fenelon, S.J., of Boston College. He made this statement at the sixteenth annual banquet of the Catholic Literary Union, at the Waverley House, Charlestown.

"There is need of this warning to-day," he said. "Magazines articles of late show it. The nation is falling from the truth. Of all the conditions which lead to spiritual prosperity religion and morality are indispensable supports. I admired Mark Hanna as a great politician; with his dying words he said the future of the United States depended on the Supreme Court and the Catholic Church.

"I am making midnight of the end of mystery, for we are connected rith the great mystery of a great nation but was born out there on Bunker Hill but the one greater mystery is that of God and His Son, who are just as really seen in our country and its flag."

Professor C. Monaghan, of the Bureau of Economics in Washington, spoke on "Opportunity." He dwelt on the apparent listlessness of the young in of to-day to grasp chances.

James A. Payne spoke on "Th Day We Celebrate." The State was represented by Lieutenant-Governor Frothingam, and the city by Mayor Hibbard. The other speakers were: Congressman T. Aneberry of Ohio, Congressman Jno. A. Keliher, Denis A. McCarthy and Amar D. Hill, district attorney of Suffolk county. Dr. John F. O'Brien was toastmaster.

RETIRES AFTER 34 YEARS OF SERVICE

After having served the Massachusetts Medical Society for thirty-four years as secretary, Dr. Francis W. Goss withdrew at the annual meeting of the organization in Potter Hall, Huntington avenue. Dr. Walter L. Burrage was chosen his successor. Dr. Silas D. Presbrey of Taunton was re-elected president. Dr. Edward M. Buckingham of Boston treasurer and Dr. Edwin H. Brigham of Brookline librarian. Dr. J. C. Pinkham of Lynn was elected vice-president.

GIRL FAINTS AS CAR BURST INTO FLAME

One girl fainted and many passengers jumped from an Asbarcadie car when, with a loud report, the whole front of the car burst into flames on Beacon street, near Charlesgate east.

A fuse had blown out at Cottage Farm, another at the Jewish Synagogue on Commonwealth avenue, and the passengers were uneasy, when the first explosion came that threw them into a panic. The motorman, however, soon had the fire under control, and after a ten-minute delay traffic was again resumed.

"Blind Voting" in Tour Contest

Candidates Preparing Surprises

Excuse for Holding Back Strength Disappears—Only 10 Days Left.

TODAY starts the really last lap of the race for the AMERICAN'S world wide tours. Beginning today comes a period of ten days of blind voting—ten days in which not one of the contestants will know what the others are doing; ten days in which the entire list of twenty-nine eligibles may be changed.

"Now or never" is your motto, if you are one of the candidates in the Race Around the World contest. Do not delay turning in your subscriptions. Win a place among the first twenty-nine boys or twenty-nine girls that will take these grand tours—one of the grandest vacation offers that ever was planned.

Period of Blind Voting.

The list of candidates and their standing will be printed Sunday, but the polls for that list were closed at 6 p. m. yesterday. You will not know what is being done in a voting way now, until the winners are announced.

If you are holding back any of your subscriptions, if you are holding back any of your strength with the idea in your mind of springing a surprise on your rivals, now is the time to spring that surprise. Do not wait until the last minute. Turn in your subscriptions and get credit for the votes. Not one of you knows, or will know from now on, just how hard the other is working or how much is being turned in to win better positions in the race.

Of course, the only way to win any of the prizes is to get out and work. You can work hard enough to win one of the trips around the United States, even if you feel that you cannot win one of the higher prizes. And you won't have to work very hard either.

Easy to Pile Up Votes.

Just now ten thousand votes, remember, would put YOU up among the leaders in the fight. And it takes only four yearly subscriptions to get those votes.

Twenty-five thousand votes will practically mean to make certain of one of the prizes, and it only takes ten yearly subscriptions to get those votes.

Don't you think the prizes worthy of the effort? The boys and girls that go on these tours will have the greatest trips of their lives. The trips will be an education in themselves. They will serve to put the finishing touches to anything you may have absorbed in your school rooms.

Remember, there is nothing to hold back for now, even if you fancy that there was an advantage to be gained by refraining from showing your strength before.

SHIP POUNDS TO PIECES ON SHOAL

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., June 17.—The American fishing schooner Hattie M. Graham, Captain Foley, is reported to be ashore at Bauline. She has 250 barrels of mackerel on board. Captain W. Foley and crew of the schooner are at Louisburg. Captain Foley reports that soon after the vessel struck she pounded a hole in her bottom, filled and sank.

TEN DAYS MORE

ALL THAT IS LEFT IN WORLD RACE CONTEST

TEN days more of contest, boys and girls.

Bring in your votes NOW, if you have them. Don't wait until later in the contest.

The next publication of the list will be after the close of the contest, which ends June 26.

The last voting coupon will be printed Saturday, June 26, and will be good for that day only.

Subscriptions will be received at the Around the World Department until midnight on that day. All subscriptions postmarked before midnight Saturday will be counted.

NEW COMET TO BE SEEN WITH SUN'S ECLIPSE

The new comet discovered by Edwin F. Nauity of Newton and Dr. William R. Brooks of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., makes its debut to the eyes of the general public at sunset to-night in connection with the eclipse of the sun, which will be noticeable all over the United States.

Nauity says the entire comalight, or so-called "mist" of this atmospheric "cigarrocket," will be seen with startling distinctness, and furthermore the head of the comet itself will probably be revealed to view.

As the sun goes down there will be thrown up great streamers of light, which will also change the brilliant rose near the western horizon, the whole effect being very much like the headdress of the Indian head on a cent piece. This, in Nauity's opinion, will prove his theory that comets' tails are due to sunlight collected, transmitted and deflected by the gaseous comaspheres, or heads of comets.

Within the New York and Boston region there will probably be sharp squalls with intense auroras in the southwest. The reason that the "cumulights" is not readily visible to people in general is said by Nauity to the fact that they do not know where to look for it.

"Any person," he says, "who cares to go to the trouble of getting a piece of amber glass and looking through it at the sky near the sun will have no difficulty in discerning this remarkable piece of comet fireworks."

In this part of the world the sun at setting will present very much the appearance of a watch dial on which a silver dollar is placed so that the dollar covers the figures from 11 to 4. The spectacle ... begin here in Boston at 8:43 o'clock and will be visible as long as the sun remains above the horizon.

MAY SEE YOUR OWN BACILLUS

CHICAGO, June 17.—Medical science, or at any rate electic medical science, has hitched the moving picture machine to her chariot.

Dr. Robert Lincoln Watkins, of New York, exhibits the micromoscope to the members of the National Electic Medical Association, now in annual convention at the Auditorium. Dr. Watkins, a professor in the New York Electic Medical College, says he perfected the micromotoscope only last week after laboring on it for twelve years.

He asserts that his invention will not only throw on the screen a picture, magnified thousands of diameters, of blood as it flows through a living artery, but will so magnify any one drop of blood in the living stream that the corpuscles, red and white, will be exhibited on the screen.

Even more, Dr. Watkins says his micromotoscope will throw on the screen every bacillus and germ of disease which may be in the blood current. He will enable his patient to watch the activities of the bacilli that have given him typhoid fever or scarlet fever or any other fever. This makes the micromoscope highly valuable to science, says Dr. Watkins.

OHIO MAN STICKS TO JOB.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19.—Governor Harmon brought on a sensational crisis at the State House when he discharged State Fire Marshal Rogers, of Cleveland, on the alleged grounds of inefficiency and dereliction of duty, and appointed John W. Zeliger, of Paulding County, in his place.

General Rogers refused to vacate the office when Mr. Zeliger appeared in the room and demanded it. Upon which he ordered the discharge of Chief Clerk Brown, but the latter refused to leave, and the whole State House force is pinaged into excitement regarding the unique situation. The Governor and his advisers are in conference as to the next step that shall be taken to oust Rogers.

General Rogers declared he will carry and the matter will be fought out in the courts.

WEALTHY OVER NIGHT.

DENVER, June 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Crow Hosford, the latter being the former Miss Helen Youngerman, daughter of the late Capt. Youngerman, millionaire cigar manufacturer of Des Moines, Ia., became suddenly wealthy over night three days ago, and all is now quiet on the Rockies, Neb., where a fortune of $100,000 awaits him.

Young Hosford, instead of being disinherited, as he declared himself, after years of wandering, suddenly found himself wealthy when his wife, a few days ago, opened an old suit case and found therein a packet of papers given her by her father-in-law upon her marriage, with instructions not to open it until after his death. She had forgotten the packet until she found it in the moved suit case, it containing the elder Hosford's last will, constituting his son as heir.

COLLEGE PARTY TO HAVE PIECE OF SOD AS A PRIZE

Mrs. Margaret Donelly

The honor of becoming the possessor of the first sod to be turned at the Boston College garden party next Saturday at University Heights, Chestnut Hill, will fall to the lot of Mrs. Margaret Donnelly, who is one of the ladies in charge of the Second Year High School tables.

Mrs. Donnelly intends to include the historic sod of earth among the features of her booth.

GIRL BARRED FROM HARVARD SHUNS BOSTON

Miss Inez Millholland, the daughter of John E. Millholland, a Philadelphia millionaire, who has refused admission to the Harvard Law School, it is said, because of her sex, will not come to Boston to aid in any woman's rights movement here, as many sympathizers with the cause hoped she would, but has sailed for London on the steamship Mauretania to again take part in the great suffragette movement of her British sisters.

She was very prominent in the last campaign by English women. Her father accompanied her on the voyage to-day. He maintains a beautiful London residence in Prince of Wales Terrace, Kensington.

Miss Millholland admitted that her mission to England was to aid the suffragette cause. She said:

"I went over last year to help the English suffragettes, and made speeches with them on the streets of London. Then I returned and finished my studies in Vassar. I am earnest in the work and feel as enthusiastic as I was last year. I will make speeches in London with Lady Grove and Mrs. Parkhurst and will return in the Fall to study law at the New York University. I tried to enter at the Harvard Law School, but they turned me down flatly. They have a rule against allowing women law students."

"Is your mother still opposed to your suffragette ideas?" she was asked.

"She is satisfied that I am going to study law; we had better not say anything more about that," she replied.

Miss Millholland is a girl of striking beauty. She was one of the most brilliant scholars who ever graduated from Vassar, and was famed for her athletic prowess while a student there. She has a shot-putting record of 31 feet 8½ inches.

BILLBOARD FIRED.

A crowd of boys set fire to the billboard outside No. 2065 Washington street early to-day, and an alarm was sounded from Box 281. Damage $10.

HOLD AUTOPSY TO DETERMINE IF MAN SLAIN

HAVERHILL, June 17.—Marks of violence found on the body of William J. Sullivan of this city, who died in the Cottage Hospital in Lawrence from what at the time was said to be alcoholic poisoning, by the undertaker who was preparing it for burial, led to an autopsy on the body to-day. The autopsy was ordered by District Attorney Peters.

Medical Examiner Dow of Lawrence, who issued the death certificate, giving the cause as alcoholic poisoning, came to this city and, after a conference with Medical Examiner Colston, both went to the Sullivan home, at No. 75 Franklin street, where an examination, consisting of which nothing was given out, was made of Sullivan's body.

The request for an autopsy was made by City Marshal Mack, after Mrs. Theresa J. Sullivan, the dead man's widow, Patrick Sullivan of Chicago, his brother, and Undertaker John Powers of this city had appeared before him.

Sullivan was arrested in Lawrence last Saturday, and locked up on a drunkenness charge. He was arraigned in court Monday morning and fined $1, and was about to be sentenced to eight days in default when Medical Examiner Dow arrived his removal to the hospital.

Half an hour after his arrival at the institution he died, and Mrs. Sullivan was notified.

Mrs. Sullivan is firm in her belief that her husband was murdered. She left him in Lawrence less than two hours before his arrest, and at that time he had not touched liquor and had only a small sum of money with him.

Special Notice.

WESTON, Ocean-to-Ocean Walker, feel there is no use living, just take your bad thoughts with you and walk them off. Before you have walked a mile they will look puny. Just try it." Have you noticed the increase in walking of late in every community? Many attribute it to the contest which Albert L. Post has. The antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, gives to the sufferer new ideal it. As Weston has said, "It has real merit."

BIBLE IS LEFT OUT OF ELIOT'S 5-FOOT LIBRARY

Former President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard has made public the titles of forty of the "Hundred Classics," the books for Dr. Eliot's five-foot shelf, which he says he believes will furnish any reader the essentials of a liberal education with the devotion of fifteen minutes a day.

Neither the Bible nor Shakespeare is included in the list. Many of the titles in the list are well known, such as Bacon's "Fruits of Solitude" and Milton's "Tractate on Education" are not so familiar to modern readers.

Ten of the thirty works selected are dramas or dramatic poems, eleven are biographies or works of intimate personal expression and five may be classed as essays. This is the list:

Benjamin Franklin, "Autobiography;" John Woolman, "Journal;" William Penn, "Fruits of Solitude;" Francis Bacon, "Essays," "The New Atlantis;" John Milton, "Areopagitica," "Tractate on Education;" Sir Thomas Browne, "Religio Medici;" Plato, "Apology," "Phaedo," "Crito;" Epictetus, "Meditations;" Marcus Aurelius, "Meditations;" John Milton, "Complete Poems;" Johnson, "Vulpone;" Beaumont and Fletcher, "The Maid's Tragedy;" John Webster, "Duchess of Malfy;" Thomas Middleton, "The Changeling;" John Dryden, "All for Love;" Percy Bysshe Shelley, "The Cenci;" Robert Browning, "A Blot on the Scutcheon;" Alfred Tennyson, "Becket;" Goethe, "Faust;" Christopher Marlowe, "Dr. Faustus;" Adam Smith, "Wealth of Nations;" Cicero, "Letters;" Pliny, "Letters;" John Bunyan, "Pilgrim's Progress;" Robert Burns, Poems; Izaak Walton, "Complete Angler;" "Life of Donne;" "Lives;" Virgil (Dryden), "Aeneid," Chaucer, "Canterbury Tales;" Thomas a Kempis, "The Imitation of Christ;" Dante, "The Divine Comedy;" Charles Darwin, "The Origin of Species;" "The Arabian Nights."

SOUTH BOSTON BOY HELD FOR BREAK

Edward Farrell, nineteen years old, of No. 116 West Third street, South Boston, was arrested after a lively chase by Patrolmen Walton and Buckley of the Lagrange street station and locked up, charged with breaking and entering a leather concern at No. 170 Lincoln street.

Buckley and Walton were walking along Lincoln street when they saw Farrell, and, scenting something wrong, quickened their gait to overtake and question Farrell.

The boy broke into a run, but was captured after a lively sprint. The trio retraced their steps to No. 170 Lincoln street, where it was found a break had been committed.

BARS SECOND USE OF PALLBEARERS' GLOVES

The Board of Health of Waltham has placed a ban on the second use of gloves by bearers at funerals. The order adopted by the board forbids the use of such gloves a second time unless they have been thoroughly disinfected after each single use thereof. Otherwise the board considers the gloves a source of contamination.

Have your eyes examined by an oculist specialist of 41 years' practice. We furnish the "Crown" lenses and insure them for one year against breakage, at $1.50, glasses as low as $1.00.

Little Bobbie's Pa

He Was Celebrating in Charlestown Last Night and Got Very Patriotic

WITH APOLOGIES TO "BILLY" KIRK

Bobbie, sed pa this morning, wen yu grow up to be a grate man like yure father I want yu to bee a paytriotic citizin who is alwais reddy to lay down his life for his country, sed pa.

Pa didnt com home last nite, & ma & mee were jest eeting our breakfast this morning wen he caim in, after celebrating in Charlestown.

the spirit of paytriotism semes to have overcoum yure father, sed ma wen she seen pa.

Paytriotism, paytriotism, well may yu sai it my dear wife, pa sed, the spirit of paytriotism stirs in my breast wen I think of my brave ancesters, gerral putnam and Captain miles Standish, who gaiv there lives that this country might live, and pa at the grate battel of bunker hill, the anniversairy of wich grate fite we are celebraiting today.

Bobbie, sed pa, wen pa grow up to be a grate and useful citizen, wen pa is yure father is, and are plowin yure gardeu and paul Revere dashes up and cries The Britishers the Indianes, yu must be reddy to lay down yure plowshare and run to war, jest as yure ancesters did on that illustrous day in seventy five (75) wen the embattled farmers stood on the top of bunker Hill and fired the shots herd round the world, pa sed.

the spirit of paytriotism semes to have sadi yure pherry, sed ma, and I will not hair yu telling bobbie eny moar such nonsiuse, sed ma.

bistry, bistry, sed pa, are, how soon the grate events of histry are forgotten, sed pa. litted wood we know of the grate deeds of our ancesters were it not for the words of the poets.

how easy wood it be to be mistaken, sed pa, had not daniel webster rote his poem of how paul revere rode thru every middel sex villaige and towns and woke up all the farmers out in arlington and to acins.

I never herd that daniel webster was a poet beefore, sed ma, but the pome to wich yu refer is was not grate the battel of bunker hill at all.

Joosay? It start twas the seventeenth (17) of June in seventy six (76) sat pa, and wasn't it on that day that the grate battel of bunker hill was fote.

not so, sed ma, it starts twas the nine teenth (19) of April in seventy-five (75), sis nit deer wife, pa sed, you are somewhat in error. Yu are mistaken yu are thinking of St. Patrick's day when the good saint stood on the heights over in Dorchester and sprung the local opsion bill on the rowen wards and ordered out all the snuffs from the city.

nix on the snakes, ma sed, yo'll begitin yourseelf in bad with those spirits of paytriotism wich yu get over in Charlestown Sent nite, sed ma, if yu dount look out.

bobbie, sed pa, much as it grieves me I must say yure mother never had the eguca tion yure father had. she was brot up in east Boston. let me tell yu the story of the battel of bunker hill. Twas the seventeenth (17) of June in seventy six, hardly a man is now alive who remembers that famus dai and yere. Old general Put and his farmer band were called to arms by paul revere who took the best nildnite joy ride out over the somerville boulevarde and woke every body up wich wasn't woke up by the firecrackers the site before. Mlley standish and his brav pilgrims who are the fathers of their country as will be seen by looking at the family tree of those families which has trees, herd the rail, as they all went to Charlestown and began fiting the britiah to see who could lick. Old geural Put was in command and he sed, sed pa, Yu may fire wen reddy gridley, & wen they were reddy they fired and they licked the britiah and the Indians and that's why I am so proud of my ancesters and why I have worked long and hard thru the nite tell us moar of yure nite's work, sed ma.

that i will, sed pa. I hair worked vairy hard indede, pa sed, all nite I have marcht from corner to corner in my canisetertes telling the story of bunker hill to stir up the patriotism of our youths.

And did you stir them up, sed ma.

I did, sed pa, moar than three hundred (300) honist and payriotic young men rallied to my banner and cheered and cheered wen I told them of how daniel webster rote that grate national song, the wound of bunker hill will the shots were flying all shout him.

well, sed ma, I guess that will do for yu. we've herd quite enuff and now I will tell bobbie the real story of the battil of bunker hill. It wasn't geural putnam at all, it was geural warren who led the colonial farmers, and miles Standish had been drd a hundred (100) yeres, and he hatted was fot on the seventeenth (17) of June in 1775, and the shots wich were herd round the world were fired at the battel of lexington and concord on the preceeding april (19) seventh, no and nobondy sed fire wen reddy, but geural warren, who was blind in the battel, sed hold yure fire till yu can see the whites of their eyes. Retreeving the fife some warming up some, paul Revere roused the farmers for the battel of Lexington and concord and set out for bunker hill and hill, ma sed.

he didnot sai anything for a minnet or two (2) and then he sed, sed pa they didnot fite the battel of bunker hill any way, sed pa. it was on breede's hill.

ma guv yu a look and pa went to bed to sleep to-day.

GLOUCESTER CRAFT ASHORE AT CHATHAM

CHATHAM, June 17.—The Gloucester fishing schooner Katherine Burke grounded on Handkerchief Shoal while on the way to the fishing grounds after baiting at the Monomoy fish traps. Captain Kelley of the Monomoy Point Life Saving Service summoned a volunteer crew of fishermen to go to her aid. The crew of the Burke succeeded in floating the craft before assistance reached them, however, and proceeded apparently uninjured.

POOR DOOS
THEY'RE OFF! IN MONTGOMERY AND I'M A CINCH IN THE FOURTH RACE TODAY
HUH?
THE WHOLE CHUCK, $12.50 ON MONTGOMERY TO WIN!

DOVEY'S AXE TO FALL ON DOVE NECKS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 17.—Roger Bresnahan and his Cardinals will make another try towards the first division in the second game with the Boston Doves this afternoon.

The big ex-Giant says he hates to do his old team mate up every time they meet, but he needs all the games he can get and Bowerman can't drop any lower in the percentage column anyway.

After the struggle this afternoon both teams will take a day off, no game being scheduled for tomorrow. It is expected that both President Dovey and Manager Bowerman will be in St. Louis tomorrow and a consultation will be held which is expected to develop something new in the affairs of the Doves.

It is said that each has secured some new talent while on the scouting trips and they will compare notes and reach a decision as to what changes will be made in the personnel of the Boston team.

It is generally conceded that several radical moves will be made and several of the men who are now on Dovey's pay roll and who are failing to deliver the goods are in immediate danger of decapitation. President Dovey is highly exasperated over the showing of part of his team and is said they are not doing as well as they should.

While a change in management has been considered, nothing definite has been decided on and it is believed likely that Bowerman will still remain in charge, but will be given a free hand to get rid of the clique which has been trying to oust him from the managerial job.

Rumors are current here that two infielders, two outfielders and one pitcher have been secured and that they will soon join the team. It would not be a surprise to local baseball circles if waivers were asked on Ritchey, Dahlen and Sweeney and one other member of the team immediately after Dovey and Bowerman compare notes.

STALLINGS SHEDS A COMPLETE BATTERY

NEW YORK, June 17.—In the midst of all his harrowing misfortunes Manager George T. Stallings of the Braves has not been too preoccupied to pay attention to the future welfare of his charges. He has parted company with a complete battery.

Doc. Newton, otherwise known as Eustace, is to make his annual debut in minor league society. Catcher Pauzils of the University of Pennsylvania, has also been turned back for seasoning. He goes to Allentown of the Tri-State, while the doctor reverts to Joe Kelley's Toronto Eastern Leaguers. Whether Lady Baltimore has returned back for seasoning remains to be seen. He has that hazy faculty of bobbing back into polite company every time he tarries in the bushes for a short seasoning.

Newton's checkered career could well furnish budding baseball romanticists great scope for fancy. Four times he has come back from the brush, even more promising than when turned out to pasture. The Bushwhacker seems to have everything but luck. In the big league he has had the mark of his opponents' mats for singles, doubles, triples and home runs to win even a fair portion of his games. But at that, it's about even money that he will be back in the big ring next Spring.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

Morning game to-day at 10:15 o'clock. Afternoon contest starts at 3 o'clock.

To-day's games are the first holiday contest played at the Huntington avenue grounds this season.

The Red Sox will soon be termed the "Error Boys" instead of "Speed Boys."

Sullivan pulled off the only swipe of the afternoon.

The Red Sox made a good getaway. McConnell's single and Speaker's slam to right for three bases, scored one run and then Speaker tallied on Sullivan's passed ball.

Steele fooled the White Sox batters and did not allow a hit for two innings.

Wolter was the first Red Sox to dabble in the error column. He entered by dropping McConnell's nice throw of White's grounder in the fourth session.

Sullivan's passed ball was costly as it let Speaker score.

Steele allowed but one hit in the first two innings.

Wolter nearly let Dougherty's pop fly get away from him in the sixth. If he had Dougherty would have been out as there were two men on and in that case an infield fly is always an out.

Suter swings like a loose door when he attempts to bat. He fanned on three occasions yesterday, twice when hits meant runs.

The visitors pulled off two dandy double plays. The Red Sox also manipulated one.

The hits stand ten to eight in favor of Boston, but it is the runs that count.

Speaker administered an awful beating to the pellet. His two hits went for three bags each. He scored two of the local's four runs.

McConnell hit in good style, getting two nice ones. Thomas also celebrated his return to the game by getting a pair of timely wallops.

Arellanes relieved Steele in the sixth inning and allowed but one hit.

Four triples were batted out. Speaker got two and Purtell and Dougherty each made one.

The White Sox star twirler, Walsh, finished the game after Suter was yanked from the box at the end of the eighth.

Niles batted for Arellanes in the final frame and got a hit past Purtell.

In the eighth round Gessler, Wolter and Wagner all rolled little grounders to Atz, who handled all three cleanly.

Baseball News and Notes

It looks as though Manager Stallings could not expect much from Bonin and Mitchell this season, or any other season. He has had two flings in the box, but on both occasions failed to do anything worthy of a first-class pitcher. The Conway Maes that he has secured lately but still we can't tell: he may set the American League on fire with his work. Time will tell, and Boston fans hope he has a pitching wiz.

The Pirates are keeping the National League baseball sex those days with everything their own way.

McAleer is said to have two classy recruits under cover for 1910. One of these men is in the Texas League and the other in the Southern League. The name of the wingster hot from the Lone Star State is Cobb, and the Dixie Circuit top who is a graduate from the Southern League is known. He is Casey, who was Pete Wilson's catcher in Hartford last season. Casey now is with Little Rock.

Even the success that he has had as a manager terrified Manager Mooney should reward Richie by permitting him to pitch at the opening of some game.

Some people are never happy unless they are spending money. One of them is Lew Moren's father, who gleefully signed another $100 check last Saturday for his son.

Worcester has an outfielder named Rondeau, who is reported to be a second Lajoie. That's what they all look like until they have been tested in the Major League grapples.

Harry Gleason is no longer captain of the Marlborough team, but "Billy" Murray says that no one is going to say Jerry's leader's loose from his job with the Phillies.

Manager Mellor of course it was before the Cincinnati series started said that he had three pitchers who could be depended on to deliver the goods. Reis—namely, Raymond, Matheson and Mitchell. Matheson was the only one of the trio to accomplish the trick, and he didn't have a walkaway.

Wagner, of the Pirates is clouting the ball as he does every season in his career in the National League, having a mark of .406 to his credit. The Dutchman is certainly a much better that ever came down the pike.

The Naps have secured a new pitcher. He is Foster, who began the season with the Charleston, S. C., team of the Atlantic League. He has been ordered to report to Manager Lajoie.

Ward Miller, late of Wausau, Wis., is making a name for himself in the Southern League. He is a fly-chaser in the Birmingham team and according to his scribes Pittsburg stepped in and took him. He joined as a holy-writer with the Pirates for a short time, and Barney Dreyfuss, finding he could make a deal with Clark Griffith, traded Miller over to the Reds for Blaine Durbin, whose Dreyfuss has been after for many moons. Durbin, who is a lefthander never had a fair trial while he was in Chicago, Chance hating too many good pitchers.

Silk O'Loughlin has his own way of indicating when balls or strikes are called. He strikes he remarks about—"Stereverrike," and sips a cautious finger at the ozone. When he calls a ball—as he sees it—he mutters something to himself and sips his right hand sideways as if it were a trowel and he just had to plow through the ozone to get it.

The New York Americans are getting the reputation of being the best rooters in the baseball and some football team would do well to hire them for the fall, for they certainly would live up to the gridiron cry, "Root, root, root."

Kansas City has offered the intermurals that 6,000 fans will attend the Kansas City, Kilties' semi-pro team play with Missouri City on Sunday.

Tom Brown, the Washington umpire, took the fences with a mob behind him at Elmira, N. Y.

Portsmouth, in the Virginia League, has Wolf and Foxen on the team. Pretty fair hunting.

If Demmitt was with Cleveland the fans would wake up some fine morning and find that Goode, Lord and Demmitt played in the game.

Bidding in the Southern League market must be pretty brisk. At last accounts President Ormond Deter of the Boston team was down there, along with Jeff Sheridan of Chicago, Herle of Pittsburg and Canavan of Detroit.

Joe Castleton, who was with the Highlanders two years ago, but never got a real chance, debuted with the Cincinnati Reds on Thursday and won his game.

Carrigan, the best batting catcher in the American League on account to date.

John Hoey, the old Holy Cross player, who had a trial with the Reds in the spring, is back in Hartford via the St. Paul Club is likely to find his way into the New England League by the end of the season.

The St. Louis Browns continue to lose, inasmuch as the team does not win games. Fielding is interesting. They are a lot of genial but useless cripples. Nothing serious ever happens to any of all goats.

The prediction of Barney Dreyfuss certainly is being fulfilled. He said the Pirates would set a hot clip after they secured Leach, Wilson and Gibson, and they have been going like a house afire ever since.

George Tebeau threatens to fin everybody on the payroll of the Kansas City team and start afresh. At the present moment Tebeau, instead of being public, is putting up the money to run the team.

JIM M'GUIRE SCOUTING FOR COAST PLAYERS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Jim McGuire, scout of the Cleveland club, arrived to look the boys over, and if he sees any he likes he will essay to make proper arrangements.

McGuire's mission is dual. He will give some of the clubs a hurried inspection, but what really brought him here is Ben Henderson, the Oakland outfier. While the Cleveland scout is not tipping off his hand, Henderson's the individual he wants to take home with him.

Henderson is claimed by Cleveland, McCredie having let his claim upon him to the club. Of course if McGuire sees any other recruits he wants he won't be bashful about tendering them an offer.

"I just came out to see what talent you had," said McGuire after he had paid his respects to the baseball players, some of whom, like Armbruster, McCredie, Graney and Speer, he already knew. "We need some men, and I thought you had a few out here we could use. I know it is rather early to get in the on a club, but I had to come. Our club has been in a bad way, but it is rounding to, and before another months is past we will be up fighting.

"Our pitchers have not been going well. Joss has been slow rounding around, and Cy Young has not hit his gait, but he will be all right. I have no fear about C. He is no dead one. Joss is already showing signs of his old-time speed and control. Detroit, but lost because we didn't hit behind him. Walter Wright lost his game two, each time being hit hard, so we loaned him out to Toledo, but if he gets to going good we may pull him back any time.

"Easterly is catching the ball and he is getting better every game he plays. So you can see we are giving him lots of work, and he can't help but make we have a jewel in him. By the end of the season we will have few catchers in the league who will have anything on him.

Speaking of the work in general, McGuire said it had been cold and dismal. Interest in baseball was lower than ever, but the clubs had lost thousands of dollars on account of the rain. It had been the coldest and wettest Spring in several years.

"I have been all over the clubs of our league play," remarked McGuire in reply to a query in regard to the strength of the league players. "Jennings has good pitchers, the hitters, and his men are working together in close harmony. Jennings gets every ounce of work out of them that there is in them.

"Boston looks to have a very strong team. I want to say that Hooper is the star. He played phenomenal ball against us. Speaker is another young player Boston has picked up who looks good. And I could name several other clever young sters on the club. New York has a raft of young players, and I predict that Stallings will select enough from it to build himself up a fine club.

"Chicago with as Comiskey's pitchers get to going right the White Sox will be up there with the best. Comiskey has had trouble with his pitchers. It looks to me as if Comiskey had gathered together a strong team. After looking all the clubs over, I would say that St. Louis has a great race again this year. Most any of the clubs can win, but I think the Browns won't and Cleveland far behind at the finish."

NAPS HAVE TOO MANY ADVISERS TO RUN TEAM

Last Winter Cleveland was ringing with prophecies that by June 1 the pennant of 1909 would be packed and addressed to Cleveland.

The world is filled with prospectors, but few of them seem unanimous. This was one of the few.

Cleveland was prepared to see a world's championship series pulled off there. Everybody in Cleveland said it couldn't be otherwise for did not the Naps have the best pitching staff in the world and did they not possess the greatest baseball head has known? The result of such a combination could not be otherwise. They would make a ball team as certain as two parts of hydrogen combined with one part of oxygen make water.

Last year I had the pennant of 1909 has not been packed and the suggestion that it be labeled "Cleveland, O." has not been heard since April 14.

The Naps are fighting for a place in the second division. Cleveland is turning to most anything except her ball park, for Cleveland is disgusted, disheartened and not to be comforted.

Her baseball team has fought, has been conquered and most often these defeats have come unto Napland when the Naps did not have the ambition to fight back.

The Naps are being played daily by too many cooks. The kitchen in Cleveland is packed with cooks and these cooks have spoiled the soup.

In other words there are too many managers in Cleveland and there is not one manager among them.

Larry Lajoie is under contract to manage the Naps, yet little weight is attached to his word.

Lajoie is the manager in public and James McGuire is the man behind.

Cleveland was not satisfied with Lajoie, but after more than half the season had he remained manager in public and in contract and "Jim" McGuire was introduced to Cleveland and given the official reins in private.

The public is to regard Lajoie as the manager of the Cleveland club, yet he is to be manager in name only. The team is to be managed by McGuire.

In other years Lajoie was Cleveland's manager both in name and reality. He holds that power no longer. The public is supposed to think so, but behind the scenes on the Naps' playing lots is McGuire, field general of Cleveland.

Base Ball IFS For To-day.

Here is a bunch of baseball "ifs" for to-day. Study them over, and then root hard for the Red Sox if the spirit of Bunker Hill has warmed the cockles of your heart and caused the red corpuscles to flow through your veins with more than their usual rapidity:

IF the Red Sox win two and New York wins, Boston will be in third place by 7 points.

IF the Red Sox win two and New York loses, Boston will be in third place by 29 points.

IF the Red Sox win one and New York loses, Boston will be in third place by 3 points.

IF the Red Sox win one and New York wins, Boston will be in fourth place, 13 points behind New York.

IF the Red Sox lose two and New York wins, Boston will be in fourth place, 33 points behind New York.

IF the Red Sox lose two and New York loses to Cleveland, Boston will be tied with Chicago for fifth place, 11 points behind the Highlanders and Naps, who will be tied.

WOODMAN IS COMING BACK FOR REVENGE

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, June 17.—Joe Woodman, the manager of Sam Langford, dropped into the office of the AMERICAN this afternoon in an angry frame of mind. He had just received a copy of the BOSTON AMERICAN in which Dan McKetrick, the manager of Willie Lewis, was quoted as saying that Langford was "all in," and that Langford had misstepped an offer to fight Lewis for a $10,000 purse.

Woodman, excitedly waving the paper, exclaimed: "I will sail on the Lusitania Saturday, and when I get to America I will make Dan McKetrick swallow those words. The moment I arrive in New York I will post $10,000 for a fight between Lewis and Langford, and, furthermore, I'll give Lewis the option of fighting either Langford or an unknown negro, who has only been in the ring a short time.

"The truth of the matter is that McKetrick dodged my propositions here and is now throwing a bluff in New York, thinking he can get away with it because I am three thousand miles away. I'll bet more that $10,000. Then you will see to a certainty who means business. I'm ready to back Langford against anybody in the world, with the single exception of Jeffries. I include Johnson in this challenge."

Hal Nelson's price was too high for the North End Club of Frisco, and now the club has matched Fireman Jim Flynn and Jimmy Needham for $1,000. Nelson demanded $7,000 to box Attell, and $6,000 to meet Harry Pierce or Ema. The latter two will box at 133 pounds.

CRANE SAYS CHESBRO HAS SEEN BEST DAY

By SAM CRANE.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Chesbro was an experiment the other day, and "Happy Jack" failed to make good Stallings's confidence. I heard that Chesbro had scratched the spitter from his delivery, but he either tried to work one in or made a most beautiful bluff at it. Anyhow, whatever the Conway boy artist put on the ball it was not in the least deceptive.

One opportunity is hardly enough to give a pitcher a trial, but taking into consideration Chesbro's many unsuccessful attempts to climb back into the ranks of pitching stars during last season and the year before, it would seem as if it was a waste of time to try to boost the once "best in the business" up to the pinnacle he once enjoyed.

At the best, Chesbro would be another experiment if Stallings took the very long chance of putting him in the box again, and just at this stage of the proceedings experimenting does not appeal to me as being the proper caper. And I hardly think the fans would care to see any pitcher but the one who has been tried out thoroughly put on the "mound" for some time.

It may be that Chesbro needs more hot weather before he can come to his best, but in the meantime the Yanks are losing so consecutively that they are rolling in position.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

H. B. Richmond, one of the prominent members of the Woodland Golf Club, came near having a very serious accident on an electric car recently. In attempting to jump aboard while it was moving very swiftly, he lost his foothold and was dragged for half a block, hanging on by just his left hand. He is a very muscular fellow, and it was this fact that saved him from being badly hurt.

Newport will be the scene of many pretty golf meetings this season with improved facilities in the way of a new clubhouse for its members. Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll and Miss Maude E. Wetmore are the interesting trio of the club this Summer, and with the popular society beau, Mr. Lispenard Steward again in the president's chair, the success of the attractions is assured.

L. M. Crosby and his son are the leaders in the "Ringer Cup" contest at the Chestnut Hill club. Both of these players have far more than overcome their handicap of the other members, and this fact is probably due to the amount of extra golf they do during each week, compared with the amount of golf that the average Chestnut Hill player finds time for.

Quite a merry party made a trip to Worcester recently by the society line and, when a six-ball foursome was played, Arthur Knight, who looked after the Boston players when they arrived, was certainly host of the highest order, and it was due to his efforts that B. S. Evans, W. H. T. R. Fuller, the State champion; H. L. Dexter and H. Dexter Gardner attributed their most enjoyable day.

S. E. Thayer of Woodland, who tied with Arthur Lockwood in the recent open competing at the Woodland Golf Club for the low score in the qualifying round, won the play off for the gold medal through the default of the latter. He is receiving the congratulations of all his friends, as this is his first prize.

While playing at Worcester, B. S. Evans accomplished a feat that has never been done in the golfing history of the club by any amateur or professional golfer before. Driving on to the first green, a distance of 320 yards in two shots, which, as you can see, is somewhat over 250 yards per swat. Evans when playing straight is without a doubt the longest driver in Massachusetts, and it is safe to say that he is the best left-handed player in the State as well.

P. M. Smith, the young Harvard golfer who came very near winning the grass prize at the Chestnut Hill golf tourney, last season had rather an unfortunate accident while playing in the meeting this year. His driver broke after playing both of the first nine holes and this so badly handicapped him during the rest of the holes, that he turned in no card.

Fall River plays the Alston golf team in the singles matches of the sectional team contest at the former club tomorrow. The Alston won at three points in the foursome contest, so only eight matches in all of the six single matches to secure a place in the second.

H. L. Nurenberg of Woodland is the only player at this club who has been able to a 3 to his credit in the "Ringer contest." Many players have come in one or two holes that usually require one, two or three strokes more, but 3 was the limit and always far apart. This 3 of Nurenberg's came on the last hole; a mashie shot of 140 yards did the trick, on a green that is almost entirely surrounded with bunkers.

MANY STARS IN BIG FIELD DAY

The Young Men's Catholic Association of Lawrence will hold a monster field day, next Saturday afternoon, at Glen Forest Park, and many of the foremost athletes of New England will take part.

Captain Little of the Harvard track team, Oscar Hedlund, the New England half mile champion, M. W. Norris, the New England five mile champion, Edward Farell, the New England broad jump champion, William H. McVicker and Frank Sheehan of the South Boston A. C., William Lynch of Fort Warren, William C. Frost of the B. A. A. and other famous men from all parts of New England have entered.

The greatest aggregation of fast men ever seen in that locality will perform. The games will start at 2 o'clock and Hugh C. McGrath will do the starting.

NEIL IS FAVORITE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Frankie Neil who recently returned to his old home heath to fight Monte Attell for the bantamweight championship of the world has been installed a 10 to 8 favorite over the Hebrew lad and it is probable that as good as 6 to 5 may be had on the boys when they weigh in at Cofroth's arena next Saturday afternoon.

Both of the little fellows are well within the poundage which will enable them to make the weight without trouble.

DEAD HEAT AT GRAVESEND.

GRAVESEND, N. Y., June 17.—The first dead heat of the year occurred at Gravesend when Evening Song and Huida's Sister finished on such even grounds that the judges were unable to decide which won. The two ran like a team all the way. The purse was divided.

BRITON IS FRENCH 'CHAMP'

VERSAILLES, June 17.—The French golf championship was won by J. H. Taylor of England, the British open golf champion and holder of the French title, after an up-hill fight he won from James Braid by one up. Tom Vardon, also of England, was third.

YANKEES MAY CAPTURE POLO HONORS ABROAD

Within the next two weeks, on June 23, to be exact, four rich young Americans will attempt to beat England in one of the very few remaining games in which the Britishers have the upper hand.

The game is polo, the four Americans are Laurence Waterbury, "Monte" Waterbury, Harry Payne Whitney and Devereux Milburn, members of the exclusive Meadow Brook club, and should they win the series of games from the best polo players in all England they will bring back to this country the Cowdray Cup, which was won by the Britishers some years ago.

The New York players are confident of winning. If they do England will have been beaten at practically every sport by Americans excepting tennis. The Meadow Brooks have been over England for several weeks and have made the Londoners sit up and take notice at the whirlwind manner in which they have swept the British players off their feet in the preliminary polo matches.

The first of the matches will be played at Ranelagh, where last week all the Americans beat Comte Jean de Madre's team of Continental players by the one-sided score of 14 goals to 1.

The Americans took their own ponies over to England and these animals have created almost as much of a sensation as the stars themselves. Last week the American players and their mounts that the English sportsmen have not been able to pick a team to represent the country, although it seems reasonably certain now that the British four will be made up of Captain Wilson, F. M. Freake, Pat Nickalls and C. D. Miller.

The cup is at present held by the Hurlingham team, and the four men mentioned above will represent that club. Harry Payne Whitney sent a challenge to the Hurlinghams on behalf of the Meadow Brooks last April, and it was immediately accepted.

THREE STARS IN BIKE BATTLE AT BEACH OVAL

Three of the greatest riders in the business meet in an hour race behind pacing machines this afternoon on the Revere track, when Floyd McFarland, Jimmy Moran and Elmer Collins get the signal.

In the test of human endurance and ground covering McFarland, with his many conquests, is looked upon as the dangerous one in the three-cornered match and the old warhorse is always there with his plugging when it comes to the long grind, as his many trips in the six-day contest go to show. He shares the honors with Moran as being the greatest six-day rider who ever strode a wheel.

Moran is feeling pretty sore for Collins beating him in the first race of the season at the beach oval when the two pounded from Lynn put one over on the tireless rider on May 30 and the Chelsea Mile will give the fans a taste of some of his marvelous riding powers as he does not intend letting Collins repeat.

Lynn will go broke backing Collins after what he has shown this season and the slight looking sprinter should be at his best and always has the job of roughing the big fellow. The after the company this better Collins likes it and spurs him on to upset the talent.

As the pace will be kept hot for the full time there is likely to be a new hour mileage set up by the end of the sixty minutes.

There are three other events on the card, two for amateurs and a three-mile motor race, with Turville, Huden and Connolly controlling the levers.

SANDY TRAINS FOR BIG BOUT

Just to be sure that Sandy Ferguson will win over Joe Jeanette next Tuesday night, when they meet for the second time within a few weeks, his manager has picked out a quiet spot on Lake Massabesic, up near Manchester, N. H., to have him in the best possible form that he can reach.

This contest means everything to Sandy, as a reverse will put him out of business as a drawing card, and the big clipping of Jeanette, who holds the title of heavyweight champion of France, he will remove one big obstacle from his path to get bigger game.

Sandy has a pretty husky proposition, but was lucky to get away with the decision over the Dusky fighter, as he got the best of the count when Ferguson floored him in the early rounds.

Sandy has always shown to better advantage against men near his own size and for that reason should get the measure of his husky colored foe on this occasion.

FIGHTER IN WESTMINSTER.

Few know that a prize fighter is buried in Westminster Abbey. In the west cloister, imbedded in the pavement, is a slab of marble marking the grave of John Broughton, who was a verger in the abbey for more than thirty years, and before he obtained the situation was the champion of Great Britain, holding the belt for more than twenty-one years. He engaged in twenty-two contests and was the victor on each occasion except the last.

BOUT ENDS IN SCRAP.

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—The fight between Maurice Sayers of Milwaukee and Jack Redmond of St. Paul at the Royal A. Love Letters as Dangerous as Dynamite

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

DON'T keep love letters! Unless you are receiving them from your own wife or husband or your fiance, you might better keep a box of dynamite in your kitchen or introduce an infernal machine into your household than to guard a package of love letters.

Let them perish in their own fires as soon as absorbed by the eye and heart.

If your engagement is broken, even though one or both swear never to marry, nevertheless it is worse than folly to keep the letters exchanged during the existence of tender relations.

Fate plays such strange pranks with us all. Your lover may some day be President of the United States, or your sweetheart the wife of a great celebrity, and unnecessary pain and annoyance ensue from the unearthing of those old letters by some accident.

Burn them. I say, burn them!

It is one thing to have your husband or wife tell you of an early rehearsal of Cupid's drama before you met. It is another to encounter the love letters written during that period—which seem to your exacting heart more realistic than the role you have been engaged to play for life.

Let the Dead Bury Its Dead.

Sometimes a sensible, moral being is suddenly swept off his feet by a tidal wave of passion.

Sometimes he is safely landed on shore by a happy turn of the wind or by the life-saving crew of Providence.

He hides his bruises, and no one knows of his brief disaster—unless he carries about with him the incriminating letter.

Oh, the folly of it!

It is no easy task, however, to burn or destroy a letter that is dear to you. A genuine love letter breathes the very fragrance of the writer's soul.

Who, capable of understanding the grand passion, has not felt the keen sense of pleasure that was twin to pain at the sight of the beloved one's handwriting?

Where is the man or woman so stoic or commonplace who has not at some time kissed the page whereon a dear hand has rested, and then folded it near the heart whose accelerated throbs welcomed its approach?

And who of deep feeling and wide experience has not at some time felt his own heart scorching with the parcel of letters he tossed upon the coals?

But human hearts have a Phoenix-like propensity for rising from their own ashes, strong with new life, and capable of new emotions. Let there be no accusing records of the old.

Let the dead bury its dead.

However it burns, whatever it costs, burn your love letters.

June, the Month of Honeymoons

By Beatrice Fairfax

The Western bride, racing over the prairie to her wilderness home, feels just as joyous this month as the bride of the millionaire

JUNE is the month of roses, daisies—and brides.

It is because it is such a beautiful month that the brides have claimed it as their own and made it the banner month of the calendar.

There is an old saying "Happy is the bride the sun shines on," but the truth is "Happy is the bride who is marrying the man she loves," and, in her glad young heart she cares not a whit what the weather may be, just so long as they two are together.

And the lovely part of it all is that the girl who walks up the aisle clad in white satin, amid the scent of roses and with the soft strain of "Lohengrin" pulsing through the air, the girl who rides a mustang across the Western plains to the nearest minister's house, and the girl who seeks the services of the nearest Alderman, are all equally happy. The bride feeling is in their hearts.

When a girl marries the man she loves she is just as happy if she goes home to a two-room flat as she would be in going off in a yacht or an automobile on her honeymoon.

I know of one young couple who had no money to spend in traveling expenses, so they took a two weeks' walking trip.

"Oh! it was heavenly," the little bride told me when she came back, brown as a berry and beaming with health and happiness. "We walked just as far as we wanted to each day and cooked our meals over a camp fire. We carried blankets in our knapsacks and half the time slept in the woods."

Why don't some of you brides-to-be try that scheme? It will do you far more good than traveling in stuffy railway trains.

Don't let any little notes of discontent creep in to bar your honeymoon. Remember that it is the sweetest time of your life, and let nothing happen to mar its memory.

When you hear of the grand weddings that take place during this wedding month don't envy the bride. She is just a girl, like yourself, marrying the man she loves and not thinking much about her gorgeous dress or the show and pomp of the ceremony.

The one great, important thing is that you should love and respect the man you are marrying, and that you should enter upon your new life with a sense of the solemnity of the step you are taking and an earnest desire to be a good wife.

Some girls think it a disgrace to be an old maid, but I tell you, my girls, it is a far greater disgrace to deliberately enter into a loveless marriage.

The children born of a loveless marriage are handicapped all through life, and that fact, if no other, should prevent marriages of that kind.

I am glad that so many girls choose June for their weddings. It seems as though the beauty of the month should cast a glamor over their wedded lives.

Good luck to you all, dear little June brides. May your lives be one grand, sweet song of joy and prosperity.

How One Woman Set a Standard of Brave Living

By LILLIAN BELL

(Continuation of an article printed in this page yesterday, in which the writer told how Mrs. Steinman, a widow, left practically penniless with five small children, bravely began the struggle to keep her family together and support them until they were old enough to help.)

"HOW did you manage to live at first?" I asked her.

"I knew nursing—just plain nursing—and I got a place right away at two dollars a day. Then my husband was a tailor, and he had taught me his trade, so I knew how to sew. I took that work, too, and after the children were in bed I sewed.

"But you needed a great deal of money to feed your family, didn't you?" I asked, thinking of my own bills.

She shook her head.

"We lived on milk and bread and cereals," she said. "Twice a week we had soup; on Sundays meat. The time the poor do their marketing is late on Saturday night. Then we get almost for nothing, what will not keep until Monday."

What the Poor Call "Dear"

"I tried to get along on cheap milk that was not boiled, but the children got sick, so I had to give it up. Milk is so dear."

When I finally got her to name prices I found that she called milk dear at six cents a quart. What would she say to the fancy prices people pay for sterilized milk in sterilized bottles, milked by sterilized men, wearing sterilized gloves, from sterilized cows!

"You know that most mothers would not even have tried to keep their families together," I told her. "Some women would have sent the baby to an orphan asylum and put the older girls to work, while they themselves took positions in private families."

"These women would have done this because they were ignorant—because they didn't know, or because they didn't believe that anything else could be done.

"I want to tell them what one woman did, and how little she had to do with, so that some poor, sorrowing widow may take heart to do the same thing."

Mrs. Steinman made no reply, but her face flushed and her eyes glowed.

This is what I finally found out:

"When we had soup I got soup bones for ten cents and five cents' worth of vegetables, or a neck of mutton, which makes a nice, thick broth, and I counted that it lasted so that I could count on five cents a day, yet we only had soup two times a week.

"When you had meat, what kind did you buy?

"I got either round steak and cut it up myself, or else breast of lamb. That is very cheap—only five cents a pound sometimes—and I could wait until it came down to that price."

"When Christmas came did you have anything extra for the children?"

She reared her head proudly.

"I saved my money and always got them something! We used to choose what we would have. The children each had a vote, and they wrote them down on paper every day for, sometimes a week before the time came. Then I counted them. They always got their wishes so often it was the only way."

"What would they finally choose?" I asked, becoming more and more interested in the little problem of life thus unrolling before me on a human background.

"Once Christmas it was roast beef, with potatoes cooked around it. We had no slice of cold meat, but vegetables and fruit."

SOCIETY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Society in all grades of wealth and fashion is represented in the Country Club races at Brookline to-day, and the picturesque race course is gay with handsomely gowned women, bedecked hats and varihued parasols giving just the proper touch of color. Oh, yes; it is gay, for Boston society does love its horses, and as they had no horse show this year, these races, in a way, take its place; so naturally the prettiest gowns and the most becoming hats have been saved for the occasion.

Young girls are there in plenty, and no doubt they will, as usual, do a small bit of betting—unknown, of course—for as one girl remarked only yesterday: "Why, it isn't a particle of fun seeing which wins unless you have something up on it—that's where all the excitement comes in."

Among the girls who attend are Miss Mary Josephine Amory, daughter of the Francis L. Amorys, who is always faultlessly gowned; Dorothy Mandel, no doubt, is the pleasest of tailored frocks; Barbara Burr, Lillian and Eleanor Paton, Elinor Quincy, Barbara and Juliet Higginson, Ruth Wilson, Marie Lee, Eleonora Sears and—well—in fact all the girls of that exclusive coterie who are still within reach of Boston.

And still another Boston man is to wed a New York girl!

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of A. Robeson Sargent, eldest son of Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of "Holm Lea," Brookline, to Miss Maria de Acosta, daughter of Mrs. Ricardo de Acosta of No. 777 Madison avenue, New York.

Mr. Sargent, who is a Harvard '00 man and member of the Somerset, Tennis and Racquet, Country and other clubs in Boston, and the Harvard Riding and Union in New York, has for the past two years resided with his sister, Mrs. Potter, in New York.

Miss de Acosta is a younger sister of Mrs. Philip Lydig and Mrs. Orrin Rood.

The marriage will take place in the early Fall.

Mrs. William Belden Noble and daughter, Miss Davida Yates Noble, are to close their Washington residence by June 25. They are to spend the Summer at Bar Harbor and in the Berkshires.

WHAT COULD A POOR WOMAN DO?

IT'S FROM COUSIN FRED HE WANTS US TO SPEND OUR VACATION WITH HIM AT HIS SUMMER PLACE, TOO
FINE! THAT'S JUST WHAT I NEEDED THIS YEAR.—SECOND REST FOR A WHOLE SUMMER, SOMETHING I HAVEN'T HAD IN YEARS.—
HOW YOU WRITE FRED AND TELL HIM WE'LL BE UP NEXT WEEK
I'LL WRITE HIM TO-DAY I'M SO GLAD THAT WE'RE GOING THERE IN JUST TIME TO SEE THEM
I WAS WORRYING MY HEAD OFF HOW TO SPEND OUR VACATION! OUR HOUSE WON'T RENT FOR WHAT I WANT IT—AT THIS YEAR
WE'RE GOING TO MEMPHIS I'M SO SORRY, BUT I THOUGHT YOU WOULD TAKE A FINE HOUSE NEXT TO OURS FOR ONLY $6000 FOR THE SEASON
SO YOU WON'T TAKE IT I'M SO SORRY, IT'S A GOOD IDEA TO ECONOMIZE THESE HARD TIMES
DO YOU THINK SO? I'M SURE I DON'T KNOW I'VE NEVER BEEN FORCED TO I'VE JUST FINISHED WRITING TO MY COUSIN WE'RE GOING TO VISIT HIS FARM THIS SUMMER
OH A FARM! OH DEAR, I'M SO FOND OF THE COUNTRY. HOW CAN YOU ENDURE IT, WHEN GOING TO NEWPORT AGAIN THIS SUMMER
I NEVER COULD UNDERSTAND WHY YOU WANT TO FIND A TRAIN TO BILLERICA, WE SPEND OUR VACATION THERE, THIS YEAR!
I WON'T GO ON I MUST HONOR OLD AGE—LOTHERE!
THEY'LL TOO GOOD WE'RE GOING TO BE PERFECTLY SORRY TO MISS YOU—BUT IT IS EXPERIENCE
DID YOU MAIL THAT LETTER I'M SO ANXIOUS TO KNOW
NO! I DID NOT! I WON'T HAVE MY FRIENDS THINK THAT WE CAN'T AFFORD A STYLISH PLACE

DRAMA

Vesta Tilley is singing two new songs at Keith's this week that have been very enthusiastically received.

There are some new Miles Bros. pictures being shown at the Hub Theatre besides several fine vaudeville acts.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be played next week by the Bowdoin Square Stock Company, the new leading man will be in the cast.

There are a number of old Boston favorites in the Lindsay Morison Stock Company presenting "What happened to Jones" at the Orpheum.

The bill at the Scenic Temple this week is replete with good music, bright comedy and interesting pictures.

"The Broken Idol" is crowding the Tremont Theatre at every performance. It is full of good music and clean fun.

Not a man on the road has done the business for weeks past that is to the credit of "The Traveling Salesman" at the Park.

There is a complete change in the picture and song program at the Globe Theatre to-day.

The steamer King Philip sails every day to the groves where big fish bite, and Captain Edward Dixon is in command.

The New Palace Theatre is giving a show in which there is enough good vaudeville to make a hit with the public.

"At Yale" is the Castle Square Theatre play for this week, and on Monday the company will produce "Florodora."

"The Yankee Mandarin" at the Majestic Theatre is a modern show that is bound full of snap and go. The music is very taking.

Wonderland has more varied attractions than ever this season for those who go to Revere Beach.

The Wild West Show given by the Miller Brothers is one of the best ever seen in this city and is drawing crowds of delighted spectators.

There is a new covered open-air theatre at Norumbega Park and the stage show is up to the mark in every respect.

THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW ROOM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

ALL Paris was wildly excited over the great mystery of the tragedy of "The Yellow Room," in which an attempt was made to assassinate the beautiful and gifted Mlle. Stangerson.

The facts of the mystery were these:

At the Chateau du Glandier, on the border of the forest of Sainte-Genevieve, above Epinay-sur-Orge, lived Professor Stangerson and his daughter. She had her father were the only occupants of the rambling mansion that served later for some the discovery of a redman.

The laboratory of the Stangersons was in a pavilion about 1,000 feet from the chateau. Adjoining the laboratory was the "Yellow Room," where Mlle. Stangerson slept. The room, a fairly very small one, and was furnished with a dressing table and two chairs. There was no door to the chateau, so that the pavilion was occupied at night only by Mlle. Stangerson and Daddy Jacques.

On the night of the attempted assassination Stangerson worked with her father till midnight and then retired to the Yellow Room. Her father and Daddy Jacques heard her lock the door of the Yellow Room, and bolt it from the inside. At 12:30 o'clock, while Jacques and Professor Stangerson were in the laboratory, there were sounds of a terrific struggle in the Yellow Room. Mlle. Stangerson was heard to cry: "Murder! Help!" and two pistol shots rang out. Then followed sounds of the beating of the door against the wall, and then all was silence.

Mlle. Stangerson lay on the floor in her nightgown. There were marks on her throat, as if it had been clutched and choked by powerful hands, and there was a deep wound on the right temple, a revolver like those used by the police, and which he kept in his study, lay near. Two shots had been fired from it, and it seemed probable that the wound in the head and bleeding wound in Mlle. Stangerson's temple was a bullet wound.

The only possible clues discovered were bloodstained marks of a man's large hand on the wall and door, a big handkerchief red with blood, with the initials "F. L." in the corner, and a pair of eyeglasses with heavy horn rims and broken lenses, but no sort of scientific impression.

The murderer, it was evident, was going to the Yellow Room to kill Mlle. Stangerson, but was frightened away by the struggle of the victim with her assailant.

Arriving at Glandier, Rouletabille and Sicrisir found Frederick Larsan, a great Paris detective, at work on the case. Through the local police Larsan had them "spotted" and could not be admitted, and that the murderer, Larsan told his wife, had escaped.

Robert Darzac then drove down and out through the gate, in haste to catch a train, but Rouletabille stopped his horse and questioned them separately and with the presbyter has not nothing of its cheese, nor the garden its tomatoes.

Rouletabille and Sicrisir then entered the grounds of the chateau, himself returning with them.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Examining Magistrate Questions Mademoiselle Stangerson.

TWO minutes later, as Rouletabille was bending over the footprints discovered in the path, under the window of the vestibule, a man, evidently a servant at the chateau, came toward us rapidly and called out to Monsieur Darzac that a telegram had just arrived.

"Monsieur Roberne, the magistrate, you know, is questioning Mademoiselle."

Monsieur Darzac uttered a muttered excuse to us, and set off running toward the chateau, the man running after him.

"If the corpse can speak," he said, "it would be interesting to be there."

"We must know," said my friend. "Let's go to the chateau." And he drew me with him, but at the chateau gruinrum placed in the vestibule denied us admission up the waitress of the first floor. We were obliged to wait downstairs.

This is what passed in the chamber of the victim while we were waiting below.

The family doctor, finding that Mademoiselle Stangerson was much better, but fearing a relapse, which would no longer permit of her being questioned, had brought it his duty to inform the examining magistrate of this, who decided to proceed immediately with a brief examination.

At this examination, the Registrar, Monsieur Stangerson and the doctor were present. Later I obtained the text of the report of the examination, and I give it here in all its legal dryness:

Q.—Are you able, mademoiselle, without too much fatiguing yourself, to give some necessary details of the frightful attack of which you have been the victim?

"Answer. I feel much better, monsieur, and I will tell you all I know. When I entered my chamber I did not notice anything unusual there.

Q.—Excuse me, mademoiselle—if you will allow me, I will ask some questions and you will answer them. That will fatigue you less than making a long recital. A.—Do so, monsieur.

Q.—What did you do on that day?—I want you to be as minute and precise as possible. I wish to know all you did that day. It is not asking too much of you.

A.—I rose at 10 o'clock, for my father and I had returned home late on the night previously, having been to dinner at a reception given by the President of the Republic, in honor of the Academy of Science of Philadelphia. When I left my chamber, at half-past ten, my father was already at work in the laboratory. We worked together till midday. We then took half-an-hour's walk in the park, as we were accustomed to do, before breakfasting at the chateau. After breakfast we took another walk for half an hour, and then returned to the laboratory. There we found my chambermaid, who had come to get my room in order. I went into the Yellow Room to give her some slight orders and she directly afterward left the pavilion, and I resumed my work with my father. I re o'clock, we again went for a walk in the park and afterward had tea.

Q.—Before leaving the pavilion at five o'clock, did you go into your chamber? A.—No, monsieur, my father went there at my request, to bring me my hat.

Q.—And he found nothing suspicious there? A.—Evidently no, monsieur.

Q.—Is it, then, almost certain that the murderer was not yet concealed under the bed. When you went out, was the door of the room locked? A.—No, there was no need for locking it.

Q.—You were absent from the pavilion about a quarter of an hour, monsieur Stangerson and you? A.—About an hour.

Q.—It was during that hour, no doubt, that the murderer got inside the pavilion. But how? Nobody knows. No footmarks have been found in the park leading away from the window of the vestibule, but none has been found going toward it. Did you notice whether the vestibule window was open when you went out? A.—I don't remember.

Monsieur Stangerson—It was closed.

Q.—And when you returned? Mademoiselle Stangerson—I did not notice.

M. Stangerson—It was still closed. I remember remarking aloud: "Daddy Jacques must surely have opened it while we were away."

Q.—Strange!—Do you recollect, Monsieur Stangerson, if during your absence, and before going out, he had opened it? Can returned to the laboratory at six o'clock and resumed work?

"Mademoiselle Stangerson—Yes, monsieur.

"Q. And you did not leave the laboratory from that hour up to the moment when you entered your chamber?

"M. Stangerson—Neither my daughter nor I, Monsieur. We were engaged in work that was pressing, and we lost not a moment—neglecting everything else on that account.

"Q. Did you dine in the laboratory?

"A. For that reason.

"Q. Are you accustomed to dine in the laboratory?

"A. We rarely dine there.

"Q. Could the murderer have known that you would dine there that evening?

"M. Stangerson—Good heavens! I think not. It was only when we returned to the pavilion, at 6 o'clock, that we decided, my daughter and I, to dine there. At that moment I was spoken to by my gamekeeper, who detained me a moment. I told my daughter to continue to accomplish urgent tour of inspection in a part of the woods which I had decided to thin. I did not get free of until the other day, and begged him, as he was going by the chateau, to tell the steward that we should dine in the laboratory. He left me to execute the errand, and I joined my daughter, who was already at work.

"Q. At what hour, mademoiselle, did you go to your chamber while your father continued to work there?

"A. At midnight.

"Q. Did Daddy Jacques enter the Yellow Room in the course of the evening?

"A. To shut the blinds and light the night-light.

"Q. He saw nothing suspicious?

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

What's the Use of Fighting

If You Can't Fight all the Time

That's the idea exactly. We would not have dared to tackle the big Piano Trust if we thought of quitting at any stage of the game. My! How the Trust did brag about putting us out of the business. But that was years ago. We have been fighting ever since, and what fun we have had cutting and double cutting and scalping and slashing at Trust Pianos. Once a particularly scrappy member of the Trust was fighting us for a customer who wanted to buy said scrappy member's particular pet piano, we gave the customer the piano and paid the carriage to boot. It cost us a pretty piece of money to indulge in this sort of a battle, but what's the use of fighting if you can't fight all the time? Don't start anything that you can't finish. Some fine day we're going to finish the Trust, and then you'll see the prices of pianos down where they belong—where we've had them for years. Come up this week and get a swell bargain in any of the best makes while the fur is flying. 96 beauties will be put on the sacrifice floor.

$5 Down--$1 a Week

The gilded piano stores, with their costly appointments, their high-salaried piano agents, their sellers' commissions, etc., are no place for the economical piano buyer to go. Take the trouble to look around a little—go up where the rents are not so high and buy your piano right.

GLEN CURTISS MAKES FLIGHT IN FREAK SHIP

NEW YORK, June 17.—There is some real flying at the grounds of the Aeronautic Society at Morris Park. Glen Curtiss of Hammondsport made a short but pretty flight there in the new machine he built to the society's order.

It was the first flight ever made in New York city by a heavier than air flying machine built in America. A number of members of the Aeronautic Society were present when Mr. Curtiss glided into the air.

When Mr. Curtiss came down he was headed straight for the fence on the edge of the track travelling at a pace of more than forty miles an hour. The machine has been so constructed that it cannot be steered when running on its wheels on the earth. But to avoid such disasters it has a brake. Mr. Curtiss could not save himself by steering, but he applied the brakes. The machine, which came to a stop, was unharmed.

Just before 6 o'clock the small machine was rolled out of its shed. For a long while only disappointment awaited. Something was wrong with the adjustment of the engine and it took a couple of hours' work to repair it.

When all was righted Mr. Curtiss wheeled the machine to the track and started. Within 200 feet he had acquired a rate of more than thirty miles an hour and left the ground. The machine maintained its equilibrium in both directions absolutely.

Mr. Curtiss, whose intention was to make no more than a short leap at this trial, raised the machine to a height of about twenty feet. Then he gracefully lowered it and flew for a short distance close to the ground and again rose to about twenty-five feet before making a swift descent to the earth.

Mr. Curtiss's new aparatus, which has thus commenced the history of flying at Morris Park, is the smallest biplane in the world actually flying.

Its total supporting surface is only 520 square feet, and as the total weight lifted is, with the aviator, 550 pounds, it supports well over two pounds to the square foot of surface.

POLICEMAN SAVES WOMAN FROM DEATH

Engine Company No. 26 was called on a still alarm for a fire on the top floor of the five-story stone building No 161 Tremont street, occupied by Charles Samarlian as a photograph studio. On the way to the fire engine No. 4 came near running down Patrolman John Fox of the Court square station in Scollay square. Fox saw an aged woman attempt to cross in the path of the engine. He jumped to her aid and barely got her out of the way before the engine dashed by.

GET A SUNDAY PAPER AND GO TO WONDERLAND

Wonderland Park has earned money for its management every week since opening this year. The management is thus encouraged to go right ahead on improvements in the park's productions while the low rates will be continued, such as the happily arranged combination tickets giving ten park shows and admission at the big gate for fifty cents. In general the twenty-for-ten plan is meeting with popular favor and increasing the park's earnings.

All this means that instead of putting out housands of dollars for frills and extraordinary ballyhoos, Manager Higgins chooses to put the money into actual amusement value while lowering the prices within reach of those with limited money to spend.

Wonderland's big rides, the best possible to architects, stand for themselves. The only improvement possible is to bring these rides within reach of the public. The combination tickets, twenty-for-ten plan, and the SUNDAY AMERICAN free tickets do that.

The productions, the Golden Graces, Moving Pictures, Vaudeville, Prophet and Princess, and the minstrels have been constantly strengthened or made to replace inferior shows since the park opening. They are unique in the show business of Greater Boston, the idea of the management being to "deliver the goods" and make them within reach of the public pocketbook.

The new minstrel show is a splendid affair, including highly trained colored men and women, whose very souls enter into their artistic work. It is more than worth the money.

The minstrel show as well as park admission will be made absolutely free to AMERICAN readers two days next week. The free ticket will be published Sunday. Six other tickets will give ten-cent attractions at the rate of a nickel and a ticket, and the balance, also six in number, are five-cent attractions where five cents and a coupon will give two admissions.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN crowds are growing every week. Order the AMERICAN in advance of your dealer. Clip the tickets on Sunday and use them Monday or Tuesday according to direction.

SPANISH WAR HERO IS OPERATED ON

NEWPORT, June 17.—Captain Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N., commanding officer of the battleship New Hampshire, is a patient at the Newport Hospital, where he was operated on this morning by Dr. Charles W. Stewart. The operation was successful, and it is believed that the patient will soon recover. Captain Winslow gained distinction in the Spanish war by cutting cables off the coast of Cuba.

TODD GOING UP NINE MILES

NEW YORK, June 17.—Under construction and very near completion in this city to-day is a balloon car that is to be fitted with oxygen compartments built of aluminum so that the passengers may journey nearer to interstellar space than aeronauts have ever dreamed of journeying. In this craft Professor David Todd, the eminent astronomer of the Amherst College faculty, hopes to operate a receiving wireless instrument which will pick up a message from Mars.

As outlined to-day, the plans of Professor Todd and his sky pilot, Leo Stevens, come near to rivaling the great imaginative feat of Jules Verne in his story of "A Trip to the Moon."

The balloon car will have roomy compartments in which the pilot and scientist will be protected from the rarefied air, and still be able to breath and save their eardrums, although in an atmosphere no human or bird has ever breathed.

"I see no reason why we cannot get as far as nine miles away from the earth," said Stevens.

"I have gone four and three-quarters miles in the air with a little tank of oxygen and a mouthpiece to keep me going. In twith the car we are now finishing we will be entirely protected from the rarefied air and will be able to make observations and feel for the wireless message from Mars with Professor Todd's receiver just as long as we have any gas to keep us up."

"We have our balloon so equipped that the gas by expansion will escape. There will be no bursting of the bag. Most of our ballast will be water in a tank under the car. The turning of a stopcock will release this ballast and check our descent. We have studied every possible contingency—that is, I have tackled all the ends of the aeronauts' problem and Professor Todd has kept himself busy with his part of the experiment—the finding of a means of communication with Mars."

FEAR BALLOON MAY COME DOWN IN LAKES

RUTLAND, Vt., June 17.—Fearful that the balloon Massachusetts, with its party of Boston people, which is to go up from here in an attempt to cross the Green and White Mountain ranges, will come down in Lakes Champlain, Winnipesaukee or Sebago, or equally as serious, land in some remote part of the forests, communications have been sent out broadcast to the people of the villages of the northern parts of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine to form rescuing parties in the event of knowledge of a forced landing of the balloon party.

DEDHAM GIRL WEDS BOSTON MAN MET DURING VACATION

Mrs. Bart Keaney (nee Mac Mahern).

PRETTY GIRL ATHLETE WEDS

A romance of a vacation spent in the White Mountains two years ago was consummated in a wedding in Dedham, when Miss Mae Mahern, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mahern of Annis street, Dedham, became the bride of Bart Keaney of Boston. The Rev. John H. Fleming was the officiating clergyman.

Following the ceremony at St. Mary's Church, a reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by 200 friends of the young couple.

The bride is a graduate of the Dedham High School, where she played on the girls' basketball team for four years. She is an expert swimmer and is one of the best canoeists on the Charles River.

Mr. and Mrs. Keany on their honeymoon are to visit Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Niagara. On their return they will make their home in Roslindale.

"GOLDEN RULE" AIDS POLICE

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 17.—Chief Kohler of Cleveland to-day told the International Association of Police Chiefs, now in session here, of the results achieved by the "golden rule" police work, which he originated, and which has been in force in Cleveland for a year or more.

Under this policy the Cleveland police no longer desire to make many arrests, but invariably refrain from arresting first offenders for minor offences. In effect, they act as judges as to the need of making arrests.

Chief Kohler said that during 1908 his records show a reduction of 20,380 arrests as compared with 1907, when the total was 30,418.

"We have done away entirely," said Mr. Kohler, "with the blackmailing professional bondsmen, who have made money out of the unfortunates placed in prison before the proper inquiry into cases which is general under the old plan. Under the new system graft, blackmail and extortion are impossible.

"As I predicted, the shyster police court lawyers, the tricky politicians and the blackmailing bondsmen have been loud in their protests against the golden rule policy because it deprives them of their source of revenue and political following. But we are about free from them now."

NOTED JESUIT DEAD; ONCE BOSTON RECTOR

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Rev. Augustin Langcake, one of the oldest and best known Jesuits in the United States, died of a complication of diseases to-day in St. Vincent's Hospital at the age of seventy-six years. For many years he was a teacher in Jesuit colleges throughout the country. An eloquent pulpit orator, Father Langcake was pastor for years of St. Mary's Church, Boston, and subsequent to 1900 he served in a similar capacity at St. Francis Xavier's Church in West Sixteenth street, this city.

SIEGEL FIRMS IN BIG COMBINE

NEW YORK, June 17.—Henry Siegel, when seen at his country home at Mamaroneck-on-the-Sound to-day, explained the purposes of the new "Siegel Store Corporation," which purchased certain assets of corporations in Delaware. The new corporation has a capital of $10,250,000. Two million dollars is 7 per cent. accumulative preferred stock and $8,250,000 is common stock. Henry Siegel is president, F. E. Vogel vice-president and treasurer, Joseph McKeown secretary, and Max Pam general counsel. The directors are Henry Siegel, F. E. Vogel, Max Pam, John R. Butler, I. Kelm and Robert Davis.

The Siegel-Cooper Corporation takes over the Siegel, Cooper Company of Chicago, Simpson Crawford Company and the Fourteenth Street store of Manhattan. Henry Siegel says the Boston store is not included in the new combination, but Mr. Siegel says this store will be taken in later. The purpose of the new combine, among other things, is to save money in combination and by wholesale purchasing power.

The Siegel-Cooper Company of New York, of which Mr. Siegel was one of the founders, is now owned and managed by Messrs. Greenhut. It will not be in the new combination.

"Getting On" and "Making Good"

There's a Difference Between Them; Note What This College President Thinks About It

The president of Princeton University, speaking before a graduating class, warned his hearers against the hollow kind of success that comes to those who care more for promotion than for proficiency.

Some day it will be different, but, as things stand, all the temptations and tragedies of the world turn upon the fact that "GETTING ON" and "MAKING GOOD" are two different things.

The people that get on DON'T ALWAYS MAKE GOOD, and those that make good DON'T ALWAYS GET ON.

The Book of Job is written around this proposition, and half the literature of history and fiction is absorbed in it.

The trumpet-call to youth is a summons to work and fight and to keep the faith—and perhaps, after all, to fail—but to fail red-hearted and debonair, like Cyrano in the play—sweeping the floor of heaven with his unsullied plume!

Nothing is inglorious but success without service, applause without valor, or to live in the midst of great possessions with "a heart to dry pith."

This mighty moral Dr. Wilson turned against labor unions—so far as they discourage good craftsmanship; against the "business interests" that are pushed forward "without regard to anything but the profit of their promotors," and especially against the undergraduates in colleges who intrigue for a diploma and higgle for school credits at half price, instead of pitching in and working with all their might for solid efficiency.

It was a wise pedagogue that invented the word "commencement-day." He did it, no doubt, to rebuke the foolish scholars who suppose school honors are an end in themselves—instead of a beginning—a preparation and consecration.

The president of Princeton does well to warn his pupils that they should make haste, not to get on, nor yet to get honor—but to GET HONEST.

"The Festival of the Press"

Journalism, which once sat like a beggar at the King's gate, has become the Lord Chamberlain of the Palace.

It is one of the remarkable events of these strange new times that the British government is feasting and coveting the favor of fifty newspaper men, brought to London from the ends of the empire to review the land and naval forces and assess the values of imperial achievement.

Thus the empire does obeisance to the press. And imperialism, in putting on its good clothes to submit itself to the scrutiny of journalists, confesses that the power of public print is greater than all the armaments.

The press has been called "the fourth estate." But the saying is foolish. The press stands for no estate at all—no class, no special interest.

Its power is the power of self-effacement—of humility.

It does not speak for itself, but for its sovereign.

It is the Lord Chamberlain of the Palace, but the palace is the people's.

The newspaper is the most subtle and spiritual of all mechanisms.

In its daily pulsations it creates a sacramental union among a myriad separate spirits—a communism of the intellect that puts the passion of majorities behind the projects of the most intelligible wills.

The press is the university of the people—the public school of grown men—where all are teachers and learners.

The newspapers, in the vast reticulation of their influence, are weaving the organic filaments of a new social order—a society that shall be governed not by superstition, but by science; not by fear, but by faith.

The English government—bewildered with the complexity of its problems and beset by swords, and the shadows of swords—instinctively turns for reassurance to the power that excels all social forces in persistence and constancy—and that stands nearest the thought of the people.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THE BANKS AND THE TRUSTS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The editorial headed, What Makes Bread and Beef So Dear? is interesting and fine.

You truthfully assume that the high price of bread and beef is because "the great food trusts and their allied monopolies" have cornered the products of the industries which produce beef and bread. And you might go further and state that one of the things necessary for the welfare of the American people but are advanced in price and held there through the influence of some trust or monopoly.

But not one in ten thousand would believe you if you stated that the father and mother of the said trusts and monopolies was and is our so-called national banks. The trusts and monopolies were brought into life and nurtured into their present strength by the bankers, who, having control of the country's currency, helped to create the great combinations called trusts. One proof of this is that many of the masters of industry are also heads of, directors and large stock holders in many of our banks.

N. E. MATHEWSON.

THE ONLY REMEDY

Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN:

It might have been expected that the telegraph companies would find a way to beat the law requiring them to telegraph the filing time of messages. As is always the case, the consumer pays. The most of us would prefer to have the filing time left off and get something more substantial for our money. When will the people learn that the only possible remedy for excessive cost of telegraphing is public ownership? There is no argument against it that does not apply with equal force against government ownership of the post-office. Yet who would think of surrendering the post-office to a private corporation, with all the abuses that would follow?

OWNERSHIP is so indefinite a proposition that no one can state with confidence what it is nor can reason with a great deal of accuracy about matters in which the ownership idea is involved. It might be roughly defined as inalienable hold upon property.

But there is no such thing as inalienable hold upon property.

"I own my house," but fire consumes it and it is gone; the city condemns it for public uses and it is gone; the tax commissioners auction it off to pay tax arrearages and it is gone.

The owner owns it, that is, till something or somebody takes it away; owns it till some one else can prove a better title.

"Establishing a title" is then a process which shares about equally in legitimacy and presumption.

A friend recently purchased a house on which the record of transfer went back distinctly and without break till 1777.

That is, there had been no thieving of the property for above a hundred years. Back from that date the retrospect becomes increasingly shadowy.

The ancestors of the then "owner" appeared to have received it as a grant from the Dutch Government, and somewhere back in the haze of previous years the Dutch had grabbed it.

The abstract of title does not say that, but the Dutch grabbed it all the same.

All Property Titles Traced to Some Ancient Grab.

All human ownership begins in a grab, and the strength of a man's title varies approximately with the number of hands through which the property has passed since the original grab was committed.

Suppose the lot of land to be part of the territory originally occupied by the Indians.

No one would feel altogether comfortable in mind nor consider his title to the property exactly clear if he had himself knocked down the live Indian that had previously owned it.

But his ancestors or somebody's ancestors did just that at some time or other, and the bones of the slain Indian may be mouldering beneath the very house that the white man has erected on the stolen property.

But his conscience is at rest and his title is "clear" because the property has passed through so many hands since the original killing was done.

That is the essence of ownership. It starts as an assumption, but comes to be reckoned as fact when it has been for a considerable time adhered to and persisted in.

In the first transaction no title deed was passed. "D" shows a record of the deed that "C" gave him; "C" has a record of the deed that "B" gave him; "B" a record of the deed that "A" gave him; "A" can show no record, no deed, no anything; a solid chain of transfer hung upon an imaginary hook of confiscation.

Ownership is a word by which we agree to dignify the accidental tenure that we have upon property to which we should like to lay an undeniable claim, but cannot.

Dramatic Criticism Is Only One Man's Point of View

NOTHING more distinctly reveals the fallibility of the human mind than to read over and compare the newspaper or magazine reviews that are written upon some play or book or work of art.

Criticism, as it is practised, is not the art of measuring the value of a production, but is simply an account of the way in which the production appears to the critic when contemplated from his point of view.

So that the criticism is quite as likely to set forth the quality and idiosyncrasies of the mind and taste of its author as of the thing criticised.

His critique is like a mirror which shows you the man that stands in front of the mirror, rather than the landscape which stretches away behind the mirror.

Close by on my study table is a mass of newspaper reviews of a public performance given in this city some weeks ago.

Save that the name of the performer is identical in them all, it would scarcely be supposed that the reviewers could all of them have been occupied with the same matter.

Taken in combination, these reviews offer the reader only a shadowy idea of the character of the performance, but each of them taken separately offers a very interesting mental and moral photograph of its respective writer.
